Chapter 1: Introduction	1
--------------------------------	----------

1	The Fundamental Questions Of Control	1
2	A Typology Of Control	3
3	EC And PC (Chapter 2)	4
3.1	Properties Of PC	5
3.2	The Theory In A Nutshell	8
4	OC and NOC (Chapter 3)	9
4.1	Super-Equi	10
4.2	Anaphors And Logophors	14
5	Control And Predication (Chapter 4)	15
6	Implicit Control and Control Shift (Chapter 5)	20
6.1	Implicit Control	20
6.2	Control Shift	23
7	The Overall Picture and Open Issues	24

Chapter 2: Exhaustive and Partial Control	26
--	-----------

	Introduction: Categories of Control	26
1	Some Immediate Corollaries of Partial Control	28
2	Basic Properties of Control	31
2.1	Criteria for OC and NOC	31
2.2	EC vs. NOC	33
3	Distinguishing PC from EC	36
3.1	Complement Types of EC and PC	36
3.2	Where PC and EC are Alike	38
3.3	Where PC and EC Differ: Syntactic vs. Semantic Plurality	43
3.3.1	Desiderative & Interrogative Complements	43
3.3.2	Factive Complements	45
3.3.3	Propositional Complements	46
3.4	Semantic vs. Syntactic Plurality	48
3.5	Excursion: Split Control	53
3.6	Intermediate Summary: The Typology of Control	55
4	PC-Complements as a Natural Class: The Role of Tense	56

5	An Analysis	61
5.1	Semantic Number and Contentful Tense: Assumptions	61
5.2	Agree with Agr (PC) or PRO (EC)	64
5.3	On Agr in C	72
6	Varieties of EC: CP Complements and VP Complements	74
6.1	Implicatives: Null or Contentful Tense?	75
6.2	Implicative Complements Are CP's	77
6.3	Restructuring with Desideratives	79
7	Some consequences and Problems	82
7.1	An Overt Relative: German Inclusive Man	82
7.2	A Puzzle: French Se -Predicates	84
8	An Alternative Proposal: Martin (1996)	86
	Summary	91
Chapter 3: Obligatory and Non-Obligatory Control		92
	Introduction	92
1	Super-Equi: The Data	94
1.1	The Problem	94
1.2	Crosslinguistic Confirmation	96
2	An Analysis	99
3	Configurational Consequences	104
4	Some Problems and Solutions	109
4.1	Logophoric Extension / Inalienable Possession	109
4.2	Apparent OC in Intraposition	111
5	Deriving The Distribution of OC and NOC	113
5.1	OC and Agree	114
5.2	OC \neq Condition A	115
5.3	NOC and Logophoricity	118
6	A Critical History of Super-Equi	122
	Summary	128
Chapter 4: Control and Predication		129
	Introduction	129
1	Adjectives and Infinitival Complements: The Puzzle	130
2	Semantic Selection and Clause-Typing	133
3	Argument-Modifier Asymmetries	137
4	Two Apparent Problems	142
4.1	No PRO _{arb} Under Psych-Adjectives	142
4.2	Eager vs. Easy	143
5	A Crosslinguistic Correlation	145
6	Consequences for the Theory of Control	151
	Summary	154

Chapter 5: Implicit Control and Control Shift155

Introduction	155
1 Implicit Control	157
1.1 Control by Implicit Datives	157
1.2 Challenges to Control by Implicit Datives	160
1.3 Implicit Dative Control in Purpose Clauses	168
2 Control by Implicit Agents	169
2.1 Visser's Generalization	169
2.2 Contexts of Implicit Agent Control	174
2.2.1 Impersonal Passives	174
2.2.2 Adjuncts	176
2.3 Rationale Clauses: The ship was sunk to drive linguists nuts	179
3 Control Shift	183
3.1 The Data	183
3.2 Theories of Control Shift	186
3.2.1 "No Special Mechanism" Theories	186
3.2.1.1 Melvold (1985)	186
3.2.1.2 Petter (1998)	188
3.2.2 "Special Mechanism" Theories	190
3.2.2.1 Bresnan (1982)	190
3.2.2.2 Farkas (1988)	192
3.2.2.3 Sag & Pollard (1991)	195
4 The Status of the MDP	197
Summary	203
