

CONTENTS

Notes on the authors	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
1 Towards an ecology of language acquisition Jonathan Leather and Jet van Dam	1
2 Critical realism, ecological psychology, and imagined communities: Foundations for a naturalist theory of language acquisition Mark Fettes	31
3 A tale of two computer classrooms: The ecology of project-based language learning Leo van Lier	49
4 From joint attention to language acquisition: How infants learn to control others' behavior Hideki Kozima and Akira Ito	65
5 Beyond cognitive determination: Interactionism in the acquisition of spatial semantics Jordan Zlatev.....	83
6 Language socialization in children's religious education:The discursive and affective construction of identity A. Patricia Baquedano-López	107
7 An integrational linguistic view of coming into language: Reflexivity and metonymy Michael Toolan	123
8 The ecology of an SLA community in a computer-mediated environment Wan Shun Eva Lam and Claire Kramsch	141
9 Robot babies: What can they teach us about language acquisition? David Powers	159
10 Borrowing words: Appropriations in child second language discourse Gabriele Pallotti	183
11 Language acquisition behind the scenes: Collusion and play in educational settings Jet van Dam	203
Index	223

Young People and the Environment

An Asia-Pacific Perspective

Fien, J.; Yencken, D.; Sykes, H. (Eds.)

2002, XIV, 184 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4020-0944-0