

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
On characterizing the probability of survival in a large competitive economy Rabi N. Bhattacharya, Mukul Majumdar	7
Uniqueness of Arrow-Debreu and Arrow-Radner equilibrium when utilities are additively separable Rose-Anne Dana	29
Entry, productivity, and investment Kenneth J. Arrow	49
A model of Russia's "virtual economy" Richard E. Ericson, Barry W. Ickes	59
Reaction to price changes and aspiration level adjustments Itzhak Gilboa, David Schmeidler	89
Bargaining solutions with non-standard objectives Peter B. Linhart	99
Investment and concern for relative position Harold L. Cole, George J. Mailath, Andrew Postlewaite	115
Coordination of economic activity: An example Stanley Reiter	137
Transversals, systems of distinct representatives, mechanism design, and matching Leonid Hurwicz, Stanley Reiter	163

Roy Radner and incentive theory
Eric S. Maskin	179
Sufficient conditions for Nash implementation
Steven R. Williams	193
Majority rule with dollar voting
James S. Jordan	211
Mediation and the Nash bargaining solution
Charles A. Wilson	221
Public spending and optimal taxes without commitment
Jess Benhabib, Aldo Rustichini, Andrés Velasco	239
Are "Anti-Folk Theorems" in repeated games nongeneric?
Roger Lagunoff, Akihiko Matsui	265
Trust and social efficiencies
Robert W. Rosenthal	281
Survival and the art of profit maximization
Prajit K. Dutta, Rangarajan K. Sundaram	297

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-540-43897-7>

Markets, Games, and Organizations

Essays in Honor of Roy Radner

Ichiiishi, T.; Marschak, Th. (Eds.)

2003, VI, 314 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-540-43897-7