

CONTENTS

PREFACE.....	ix
INTRODUCTION	1
I. SUBSTANCES, ESSENCES, AND KINDS	1
1. Substances and the Spatiotemporal World	1
2. Substances and their properties	8
3. Essential properties and natural kinds	10
II. IDENTITY AND PERSISTENCE	12
1. Identity	12
2. Persistence	20
3. Identity, persistence, and Lockean anti-essentialism	22
4. A brief look ahead	24
LOCKE’S CRITIQUE OF ESSENTIALISM	25
I. LOCKE ON THE ACCIDENTAL/ESSENTIAL PROPERTY DISTINCTION	26
1. The sortal relativity of essential properties	26
2. Unsorted particulars and accidental properties	28
3. Real essences of sorted and unsorted particulars	30
II. LOCKE ON THE NATURE AND EXISTENCE OF NATURAL KINDS	32
1. The “second opinion” regarding natural kinds	33
2. The “first opinion” regarding natural kinds	36
3. Locke’s epistemological and semantic arguments against real kinds	40
4. Locke’s appeal to monsters and changelings	44
III. LOCKE ON THE CLASSIFICATION OF CORPOREAL SUBSTANCES	47
1. Sorting particulars into kinds	47
2. Forming sortal concepts	49
IV. LOCKE ON KINDS AND PARTICULARS	53

LOCKE'S THEORY OF IDENTITY	55
I. LOCKE'S CONCEPT OF IDENTITY	56
1. The psychological origin of this concept	56
2. Diachronic and synchronic identity-statements	57
II. LOCKE'S PRINCIPLE OF INDIVIDUATION.....	62
1. Locke's argument for the principium individuationis	63
2. Three objections	71
III. IDENTITY AND THE IDEAS OF THINGS	74
1. General ideas and persistence conditions	75
2. Locke and the relative identity thesis	83
IV. DOES LOCKE HAVE A CONSISTENT THEORY OF IDENTITY?	92
1. Two accounts of persistence	93
2. A metaphysical dilemma	96
LOCKE ON THE PERSISTENCE OF ORGANISMS AND PERSONS.....	101
I. ORGANISMS AND THEIR MATERIAL PARTS.....	102
1. Atoms and masses	102
2. Organisms, Masses, and Lives	103
II. LOCKE'S ORGANISMIC THEORY OF PERSONAL IDENTITY	113
1. Persons, consciousness, and the nature of thinking substances	113
2. Consciousness as the "life" of persons	123
3. What consciousness might do	126
4. The temporal extent of Lockean organisms	133
5. The temporal extent of human persons	135
6. Organisms, persons, and their temporal stages	136
III. LOCKE'S THOUGHT EXPERIMENTS AND PROBLEM CASES	139
1. Cases involving lapses of memory	140
2. Cases involving two persons and one man	141
3. Cases involving one person and two men	142
4. The case of the conscious, severed finger	143
IV. CONCLUSION	144
OBJECTIONS AND REPLIES	147
I. THE CHARGE OF ANACHRONISM	148
1. Initial response	148
2. Some historical counterexamples to the charge of anachronism	150
3. Locke's views on space and time	155
II. FOUR-DIMENSIONAL BODIES AND THE CORPUSCULARIAN HYPOTHESIS	161

1. The temporal extent of Lockean atoms and masses	161
2. Locke and Newton on the creation of material corpuscles	163
3. The temporal extent of Newtonian bodies	168
4. The mobility of temporally extended bodies	170
III. CONCLUSION	173
RELATIVISTIC ANTI-ESSENTIALISM AND A FOUR-DIMENSIONAL LOCKEAN ONTOLOGY	175
I. THE ANTI-ESSENTIALIST IMPLICATIONS OF A FOUR-DIMENSIONAL LOCKEAN ONTOLOGY	176
1. The sortal relativity of four-dimensional persistence conditions	176
2. Four-dimensional persistence conditions and the relative identity thesis	177
3. Four-dimensional persistence conditions and Lockean anti-essentialism ...	178
II. TWO OBJECTIONS	181
1. A three-dimensionalist alternative	182
2. An alleged essentialist implication of four-dimensionalism	184
III. CONCLUSION	190
BIBLIOGRAPY	193
INDEX	205

<http://www.springer.com/978-1-4020-1670-7>

Locke on Essence and Identity

Conn, C.H.

2003, X, 212 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4020-1670-7