

Table of Contents

Act 1 The reversal of particularity and generality in economics .....	1
Scene 1 The St Petersburg game.....	1
Scene 2 Paradox.....	9
Scene 3 Generalities in economics and game theory .....	20
Scene 4 The reversal of particularity and generality .....	27
Act 2 Konnyaku Mondo and Game Theory .....	39
Scene 1 Konnyaku Mondo .....	39
Scene 2 The Prisoner's Dilemma and the Battle of the Sexes .....	49
Scene 3 Games with incomplete information.....	59
Scene 4 Rashomon .....	69
Act 3 The market economy in a rage .....	79
Scene 1 Market equilibrium and social dilemma.....	79
Scene 2 Market failure and widespread externalities ....	88
Scene 3 Epistemological consideration of perfect competition .....	99
Scene 4 Institutional consideration of perfect competition .....	110
Interlude 1 Clouds hanging over economics and game             theory .....	121
Interlude 2 Game theory in a crisis .....	127
Act 4 Decision making and Nash equilibrium.....	139
Scene 1 Recent topics.....	139
Scene 2 Interpretations of the Nash equilibrium .....	150

X Table of Contents

---

Scene 3	Infinite regress and common knowledge .....	161
Scene 4	Mixed strategies .....	174
Scene 5	Equilibrium as a stationary state .....	189
Act 5	The individual and society.....	195
Scene 1	Individualism .....	195
Scene 2	Ism .....	207
Scene 3	Connections between the individual and society .....	216
Scene 4	Internal mental structure of the individual ....	226
Epilogue.....		241
Acknowledgements.....		245

Game Theory and Mutual Misunderstanding
Scientific Dialogues in Five Acts

Kaneko, M.

2005, X, 248 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-540-22295-8