1	Introduction	1
1.1	General Remarks	1
1.2	Brief Summary	5
2	Musical Transient-Modeling Software MTMS	7
2.1	Part of the MTMS Program for Plates	9
2.2	MTMS Software for Guitar Parts	10
2.3	Software WAVELET	17
2.4	The MAS Program as a Signal-Processing Tool for Music	18
3	Continuous and Discrete Mechanics	23
3.1	Overview	23
3.1.1	Strong Formulation	23
3.1.2	Weak Formulation	24
3.1.3	Action Principle	24
3.2	Overview of Continuum Mechanics	27
3.2.1	Definition of the Variables	28
3.2.2	Mechanical Laws	29
3.3	Discrete Mechanics	31
4	Studies of the Guitar To Date	33
4.1	Strings	34
4.1.1	Transverse Movement	34
4.1.2	Longitudinal Movement	35
4.2	Strings and Corpus Impedance	37
4.3	Guitar Body Modes	38
4.4	Nonlinearities and Transient Analyses	43
4.5	Discrete Instrument Models	49

5	The Discrete Guitar Model	51
5.1	Top and Back Plate	52
5.1.1	Coupling within Top and Back Plate	52
5.1.2	Boundary Conditions of Top and Back Plate	53
5.1.3	Mass Distribution of the Top and Back Plate	53
5.2	Ribs	55
5.3	The Neck of the Guitar	55
5.4	The Strings of the Guitar	56
5.5	Air in the Guitar	56
5.6	Sound Radiation of the Guitar Body	56
5.7	The String Movement and Its Discrete Form	58
5.8	Longitudinal Waves and Their Discrete Form	59
5.9	Bending Waves and Their Discrete Form	62
5.10	Boundary Conditions	65
5.10.1	Boundary Conditions with Longitudinal Boundaries ...	66
5.10.2	Boundary Condition of Bending Movements	69
6	Bending, Damping and Coupling	73
6.1	Coupling of Longitudinal and Bending Waves	74
6.1.1	LT – First Type Coupling	74
6.1.2	LT – Second Type Coupling	83
6.2	Time-Stepping Method	93
6.3	Energy Conservation	97
6.4	Spacial-Temporal Differences in Discrete and Continues Mechanics	102
6.5	Results for the Plate	109
6.6	Damping	117
6.6.1	Velocity Term as Damping Term with the Harmonic Oscillator	117
6.6.2	Force Term as Damping Term with Bending Waves	119
6.7	Coupling	128
7	Results	131
7.1	Parameters of the Guitar Model	132
7.2	Sounds of the Individual Parts of the Guitar	134
7.3	Couplings	135
7.4	Spectra of the Parts of the Guitar	135
7.5	Development of the Initial Transient	143
7.6	Aural Evaluation of the Calculated Sounds of the Parts of the Guitar	156
7.7	Coupling of the String to the Top Plate	159
7.8	Pre-Scratch	161
