2	Interactive TV Applications and Their Context of Use	19
2.1	Interactive TV Applications	19
2.1.1	Definition	19
2.1.2	Classification of Interactive TV Applications	20
2.1.3	Classification of Enhanced TV Applications	25
2.2	Context of Use	26
2.2.1	Usability	26
2.2.2	Context of Use	27
2.2.3	iTV Users	30
2.2.4	iTV User Goals and Tasks	32
2.2.5	iTV Equipment	37
2.2.6	iTV Environment	39
2.2.7	Conclusions	41

3	Types of Design Guidance for iTV Applications	47
3.1	Summary of Existing Design Guidance for iTV Applications	47
3.1.1	Classification	47
3.1.2	General Interaction Design Guidelines for iTV Applications	48
3.1.3	Broadcaster Style Guides for iTV Applications	51

3.1.4	Middleware Design Guidelines for iTV Applications . . .	51
3.1.5	Comparison of Design Guidance Specifically for iTV . .	52
3.1.6	ISO 9241 and Interactive TV	56
3.1.7	ISO 14915 and Interactive TV	60
3.1.8	Design Principles and Interactive TV	61
3.1.9	Conclusions	62
3.2	Forms of Design Guidance	63
3.2.1	Classification	63
3.2.2	Analysis and Evaluation of the Different Forms	67
3.2.3	Advantages and Disadvantages of Interaction Design Patterns	68
3.2.4	Evaluation of Interaction Design Pattern Collections . . .	74
3.2.5	Conclusions	80

5	Design Pattern Collection for iTV	99
5.1	Framework for Interaction Design Patterns	99
5.1.1	Quality Criterion for Design Solutions	100
5.1.2	Identification of Design Problems	100
5.1.3	Discussion of Design Alternatives and Trade-Offs	102
5.1.4	Justification of Presented Solutions	103
5.1.5	Evaluation of the Documented Patterns	103
5.1.6	Conclusion	104
5.2	Overview of the Pattern Language	105
5.3	Interaction Design Patterns	107
5.3.1	Pattern Group A: Page Layout	107
5.3.2	Pattern Group B: Navigation	112

5.3.3	Pattern Group C: Remote Control Keys	122
5.3.4	Pattern Group D: Basic Functions	128
5.3.5	Pattern Group E: Content Presentation	137
5.3.6	Pattern Group F: User Participation.	145
5.3.7	Pattern Group G: Text Input	156
5.3.8	Pattern Group H: Help	164
5.3.9	Pattern Group I: Accessibility & Personalisation	167
5.3.10	Pattern Group J: Specific User Groups.	172
