1	Introducing the Study .....	1
1.1	Why Study a University-Level Classroom?.....	1
1.2	What Are My Objectives?.....	1
1.3	How Did I Structure This Book? .....	3
1.3.1	Ongoing Growth .....	3
1.3.2	Power of Narrative .....	7
1.3.3	Crises in the Postmodern World.....	8
1.3.4	Crisis of Representation .....	8
1.3.5	Crisis of Legitimation .....	11
1.3.6	Crisis in Praxis .....	13
1.4	Organization of Chapters .....	15
1.5	Source of Questionnaires .....	15
2	Researching Science Teaching and Learning .....	17
2.1	Preview.....	17
2.2	Introduction.....	17
2.3	What's Already Known?.....	18
2.3.1	Need for Reform .....	18
2.3.2	Research on Teaching Science in Higher Education .....	18
2.3.3	Research in College Science Teaching .....	19
2.3.4	Preparing Future Teachers of Science and Mathematics .....	27
2.4	Introduction to Case Study of a Biochemistry Classroom.....	32
2.4.1	How Do I Frame the Study? .....	33
2.4.2	What Are My Research Questions?.....	34
2.4.3	What Options Could I Choose to Transform My College Teaching? .....	35
2.4.4	What Genres Should I Use?.....	37
2.4.5	What Is This Study's Significance? .....	39
3	Developing a Research Practice .....	41
3.1	Preview.....	41
3.2	Choosing Theory as a Lens to Inform Research Practice .....	42
3.2.1	Matrix of Theoretical Frameworks .....	42

3.2.2	Theoretical Perspectives Utilized.....	42
3.2.3	Conducting a Qualitative Study .....	51
3.3	Examining Criteria for a Qualitative Study .....	58
3.3.1	Quality Criteria for Ethnographic, Qualitative Data .....	58
3.3.2	Quality Criteria in Fiction Writing .....	61
3.3.3	Quality Criteria in the Metalogue .....	64
3.4	Handling and Managing Data .....	65
3.4.1	Ethical Issues .....	65
3.4.2	Facilities and Resources.....	65
3.5	Summarizing the Chosen Methodologies .....	67
4	Writing a Story About Teaching University Science .....	69
4.1	Preview.....	69
4.2	Analyzing a Classroom by Writing a Story About It.....	69
4.2.1	How I Chose to Depict Learning .....	70
4.2.2	The Fictional Characters .....	72
	Fictionalized Story from Biochemistry Classroom.....	72
4.3	Writing the Story.....	83
4.3.1	Data Sources – My Students .....	83
4.3.2	My Reflective Journal – When Writing the Story .....	84
4.3.3	Critical Feedback to Others in Fiction Workshop.....	87
4.3.4	Point of View in Fiction .....	87
4.3.5	My Perspective.....	91
4.4	Receiving Feedback on Story from My Students .....	92
4.4.1	Mary, an African American Future High School Science Teacher.....	92
4.4.2	Franklin, an African American Premedical Student .....	95
4.4.3	Manny and Rebeka, Two Graduate Students, Trying to Work and Learn in Their Collaborative Group.....	98
4.5	Summarizing the Chapter .....	99
5	Students Collaborating in the Classroom .....	101
5.1	Preview.....	101
5.2	Utilizing Collaborative Learning .....	102
5.3	Deciding on Approaches to Teach My Students.....	105
5.3.1	Seeking Input from Biochemistry Colleagues .....	105
5.3.2	Site of My Action Research.....	108
5.4	Critiquing the Learning Environment.....	109
5.4.1	Teaching .....	110
5.4.2	Collaborating.....	115
5.5	Collaborating More Effectively .....	127
5.6	Summing up Collaboration .....	128

6 Students Using Technology in the Classroom.....	131
6.1 Preview.....	131
6.2 Learning to Use Technology in Teaching .....	132
6.2.1 Relevant Experiences in Technology Before Start of Action Research .....	132
6.2.2 Using Technology in Teaching Science .....	134
6.2.3 Utilizing Technology in My Action Research .....	134
6.2.4 Rubric: Web Site Construction and Portfolios .....	137
6.3 Examining Coherence and Contradictions Using Technology .....	137
6.3.1 Students Constructing Web Sites .....	138
6.3.2 Web Writing .....	146
6.3.3 What Worked, What Did Not? .....	151
7 Addressing the Problematic Issues of Bringing Reform in Science Teaching to Higher Education: Metaloguing with a Biochemistry Colleague .....	155
7.1 Preview.....	155
7.2 What Is a Metalogue? .....	156
7.3 Initial Metalogue with Professor Robley J. Light (1999–2002) .....	156
7.4 Resumption of the Metalogue in December 2003 .....	163
7.4.1 Impressions on the Fictional Story .....	164
7.4.2 Value of Collaborative Learning .....	165
7.4.3 The Grading Issue Revisited .....	166
7.4.4 Depth of Learning .....	169
7.4.5 Science as “Truth” .....	170
7.4.6 Does not Constructivism Apply to Educational Theory as Well? .....	170
7.4.7 Different Levels and Aspects of a Subject .....	171
7.4.8 Positive Reactions .....	172
7.5 Closing Thoughts on the Metalogue .....	174
8 Reflecting on My Learning Through Action Research.....	177
8.1 Preview.....	177
8.2 Changing Ideas on Biochemistry Research .....	177
8.3 In Closing .....	178
8.3.1 Reflecting on My Educational Autobiography .....	179
8.3.2 Summarizing My Learning Through Action Research.....	181
