

Contents

1	Are Koreans Ideological Victims?	1
1.1	The Division and Loss of Indigenous Identity	1
1.2	Kim Il-Sung's Miscalculation and the Subsequent Years	3
1.3	Brief Retrospect of the North Juche (Self-Reliant) Hermit Kingdom	5
1.4	Different Roads	7
1.5	Mass Starvation Under Plenary Power Elites	9
1.6	For Whom the Mourning Bell Tolls?	9
1.7	The Shelter for Fearful Leaders	10
1.8	Who Will Likely Take Over After Kim Jong-Il?	11
2	Inter-Korean Economic Cooperation: The Need for Reciprocity. Does Lopsided Cooperation Soothe the North's Bluffing Mentality?	13
2.1	The Definition: Economic Cooperation Versus Bilateral Trade	13
2.2	The Historical Outline of Inter-Korean Economic Cooperation	16
2.3	The Status of the Inter-Korean Trade	17
2.4	Comparison of the Inter-Korean Trade with the North Korea-China Trade	22
2.5	The Determinants of Inter-Korean Economic Cooperation	24
2.5.1	The Brief Outline	24
2.5.2	Trade, Investment, and Economic Assistance	24
2.6	The Effects of the Inter-Korean Economic Cooperation	26
2.6.1	The Impacts on the South Korean Economy	26
2.6.2	The Impact on the North Korean Economy	30
2.7	New Policy Paradigm Under Lee Myung-Bak's Leadership?	32
2.8	Closing Remarks on Reciprocity Principle	33

3	The Strain Policy Versus the Sunshine Policy: A Road to Korean Unification	37
3.1	Introduction	37
3.2	How Long Will the Red Flag Fly with the South's Subsidy? . .	40
3.3	What About the Sunshine Policy?	43
3.4	What Exacerbates Internal Tensions?	46
3.5	Conclusion: Shorten the Regime on the Brink	50
4	What if a Big Bang Occurs on the Korean Peninsula?	57
4.1	Introduction: What if North Korea Falls?	57
4.2	Historical Evolutions of the North-South Korean Relations . .	59
4.3	The Spillover Effects of Perestroika and Glasnost	61
4.3.1	Gorbachev Phenomenon and Communist Bloc Change	63
4.3.2	Why Does North Korea Refuse Fundamental Change?	65
4.4	Can Kim Jong-Il's Regime Last Much Longer?	72
4.4.1	Some Scenarios on North Korean Regime Collapse . .	77
4.5	What Will Neighboring Nations Do if North Korea Falls? . . .	79
4.5.1	"Big Bang and the After" Scenario: Dynamite-Implosion Model	81
4.5.2	Chinese Perceptions of the Korean Peninsula	82
4.5.3	Chinese Response to the North's Collapse Due to Implosion	83
4.5.4	China and North Korea at the Crossroad	84
4.5.5	US Policy and the Korean Peninsula	86
4.5.6	Japan and the Korean Peninsula	91
4.5.7	Russia and the Korean Peninsula	94
4.6	How Should Koreans Cope with a "Big Bang"?	96
	Appendix	97
5	New World Environment Surrounding Korea	101
5.1	Introduction: Misty and Rugged Road to Korean Reunification	101
5.2	The DPRK and Obama Administration	105
5.3	Will Kim Jong-Il's End Differ from Ceausescu's?	108
5.4	Will Korean Unification Be Welcome?	110
5.5	Leadership Role in German Unification Has a Lesson for Korea	116
5.6	Timely Conditions for a Paradigm Shift	118
6	The Political Economy of Reunification Between the Two Koreas	123
6.1	Introduction	123
6.2	A Brief Comparison of Economic Performance Between the Two Koreas	125

6.3	The Economics of Guns and Bread	133
6.4	The Economics of the North's Nuclear and Missile Tests	138
6.5	The Political Economy of Korean Unification	141
7	Policy Priorities for the Unified Korea	149
7.1	Introduction	149
7.2	Contingency Tasks for a Post-Kim Jong-Il Era	153
7.3	Approach for Economic Integration	156
7.3.1	Economic and Monetary Integration for the Unified Korea	157
7.3.2	Economic Restructuring and Privatization	164
	Appendix	166
8	International Politics and a Search for Unified Korea	173
8.1	Introduction	173
8.2	Four Gangs' Tug-of-War Politics and the Korean Peninsula . . .	175
8.3	What Is the Unification Formula: Option for Colorless State? . .	185
8.4	Concluding Remarks	190
	Appendix	193
	Bibliography	195
	Index	199

The Search for a Unified Korea
Political and Economic Implications

Hwang, E.-G.

2010, X, 205 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4419-1561-0