

Contents

Introduction	1
1 On Regulation	5
1 Rationales for Regulation	7
1.1 Externalities	8
1.2 Information Asymmetries	8
1.3 Monopolistic Situations	9
1.4 Public Service	9
1.5 Technological Developments	10
2 The Impact of (Public) Policy Issues	11
2.1 Regulatory Cycle	11
2.2 Phase 1: Free Market	12
2.3 Phase 2: Market Failure	12
2.4 Phase 3: Government Regulation	12
2.5 Phase 4: Regulatory Failure	15
2.6 Phase 5: Regulatory Reform	16
2.7 Phase 6: Deregulation	17
2.8 Contribution of the OECD	18
3 Public Theories of Regulation	20
3.1 Background	20
3.2 Proceduralist Theory	21
3.3 Welfarist Theory	22
3.4 Neoclassical Theory	23
3.5 Regulatory Capitalism	23
3.6 Other Theories	24
4 Institutions	24
4.1 State Institutions	25
4.2 Private Institutions	27
5 Decentred Analysis of Regulation	28
5.1 Decentred Approach	28

5.2	Fragmentation of Knowledge, Power, and Control	29
5.3	Complexity	30
5.4	Coordination and Cooperation	31
5.5	Ungovernability	32
5.6	Self-regulation	33
5.7	Globalization	33
6	Meta-regulation	34
7	Regulation as a Marketplace	37
8	Alternatives to Regulation	39
8.1	Economic Instruments	40
8.2	Information and Education Campaigns	41
8.3	Performance-based Regulation	41
8.4	Process-based Regulation	42
8.5	Other Approaches	42
9	Definition of Regulation	44
10	Conclusion	46
2	An Approach to Autonomous Regulatory Regimes	49
1	Embedding Autonomous Regulatory Regimes	51
1.1	Traditional State Approach	51
1.2	From State to Civil Society Approach: A Decentred Perspective	71
1.3	Civil Society Approach	73
2	A Brief Evolutive View	75
2.1	Temporal Approach: Past and Present	75
2.2	Sectoral Approach: Functional Differentiation	78
3	Institutional Structure	79
3.1	Theory of Interest: From Interest to Associability	80
3.2	Collectivity: From Associability to Association	83
3.3	Private Regulation: From Association to Self-regulation	92
3.4	State Intervention: From Self-regulation to State Regulation	96
3.5	Non-state Orders: From State Regulation to Legal Pluralism	98
3.6	Transnational Networks: From Legal Pluralism to Autonomous Regulatory Regimes	101
3.7	Networks as Regulatory Institutions: From Autonomous Regulatory Regimes to Meta-regulation	104
3.8	Summary of Sequences	106
4	Conclusion	106
3	Case Studies	109
1	Self-regulation	110
1.1	Commercial Arbitration	111

1.2	Credit Rating Agencies	115
1.3	Voluntary Codes of Conduct	120
2	Firm Own Regulation	125
2.1	Individual Firms	126
2.2	Multinational firms	133
3	Co-regulation	139
3.1	Securities Markets	140
3.2	Official Rules of Conduct	145
4	Coercive Self-regulation	148
4.1	Delegated Self-regulation	148
4.2	Supervised Self-regulation	154
5	Self-contained Regimes	160
5.1	S.S. Wimbledon and Hostages Cases	161
6	Global Networks	165
6.1	Digital Networks	166
6.2	Technological Standard Setting Networks	171
6.3	Financial Standard Setting Networks	175
7	Conclusion	180
4	Analysis	181
1	Fragmentation	182
1.1	Fragmentation or Dispersion?	182
1.2	Polycentrism	186
1.3	The Transnational Dimension	197
1.4	Institutional Transformation	200
2	Standardization	213
2.1	Cooperation and Trading	214
2.2	Auto-Constitutionalism and Self-regulation	220
2.3	Gradual Transformation	226
2.4	Nature of Autonomous Regulatory Regimes	252
3	Conclusion	266
5	Evaluation	269
1	A Process of Institutional Transformation	270
2	A Process of Transformation into Private Regulation	277
3	A Process of Transformation into State Regulation	281
4	Conclusion	286
	Conclusion	289
	Bibliography	291
	Index	315

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-642-14973-3>

Non-State Regulatory Regimes
Understanding Institutional Transformation
Senn, M.
2011, XIX, 318 p., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-3-642-14973-3