

Contents

1	An Interview with Roy E. Disney .....	1
2	Stories Across Media .....	5
	From There to Here: The Beginning of Interactive Stories .....	5
	Stories and Communicating .....	6
	Disney Stories .....	7
	Life Experience, Joy of Entertainment, Love of Drawing .....	8
	Becoming an Animator .....	10
	Our Story .....	10

Part I From Gags to Stories

3	Early Animation: Gags and Situations .....	17
	Getting into the Business of Animation .....	17
	Laugh-O-Grams .....	19
	Production and Story Techniques .....	20
	Cracking the Market .....	23
4	From Gags to Characters .....	25
	A New Animated Experience for the Audience .....	25
	Renewed Focus on Animation .....	28
	Creating a Character with Personality .....	31
	1923 to 1927: 57 Alice's Adventures + 1927 to 1928: 26 Oswalds = Progress .....	32
5	Synchronizing Sound and Character .....	35
	From Silent to Talkie .....	35
	Inventing Sound Production .....	37
	Strategies to Build Character .....	39
	Silly Symphonies—Setting Animation to Music .....	41
	Commitment to Improvement .....	42
	Sound and Character .....	43

6	Drawing and Color: The Language of Realism	45
	Pencil Tests and Overlapping Action	45
	Gags to Story	47
	Introducing Color	48
	The Language of Color	50
	Drawing, Color, and Story	53
7	Capturing Life in Animated Film	55
	Creating Believable Personalities	55
	The Challenge of Snow White	57
	Multipane Camera	60
	The Old Mill	61
	Snow White's Success	63
	Snow White's Achievement	63

Part II From Watching to Experiencing Across Media

8	Creating the Disney Master Narrative	67
	Establishing a Cultural Icon Within Popular Culture	67
	The Disney Master Narrative and Popular Culture	69
	Merchandising	69
	The Road Show	70
	The Original Mickey Mouse Club	72
	Radio? An Advertising but not Story Medium for Mickey...	76
	Television	77
9	Engaging Audiences Across Media	79
	Transmedia	79
	Comics	80
	Books	81
	A Little Pop-Up History	84
	Disneyland	86
	The Disneyland Stories	87
	Preliminary Story Planning	88
	Mainstreet, U.S.A.	89

Part III From Interacting to Creating and Sharing

10	Animated Storybooks and Activity Centers	95
	Arcade Game to Story Game	95
	“A Story Waiting for You to Make it Happen”—the Synergy of Story and Game Technology	97
	Along Came Simba	98
11	Going Online: A Personal Theme Park	103
	Taking Disney's World Online	103

A Range of Engaging Activities Within a Disney World . . . . .	106
Reaching Wider Audiences with New Forms . . . . .	109
12 Development Cycle: Games . . . . .	111
The Disney Online Development Process . . . . .	111
Prototyping: A Narrative Game . . . . .	114
Story Supports Game Activities . . . . .	114
P.I. Mickey Storyboards 1–8 . . . . .	114
Gameplay . . . . .	115
Edutainment . . . . .	116
Disney Edutainment . . . . .	118
Hot Shot Business . . . . .	119
Purchased Games . . . . .	122
13 Development Cycle: Quality and Feedback . . . . .	125
Developing a Community-Based Musical Activity . . . . .	125
Quality Assurance and Software Testing . . . . .	127
Focus Groups and Guest Feedback . . . . .	131
New Directions . . . . .	134
14 MMORPGs: Player-to-Player Interaction . . . . .	137
Initial Steps . . . . .	137
Chat Studio: The First Disney Virtual Community . . . . .	138
Multiplayer Jabber Flash Games . . . . .	139
Massive Multiplayer Online Games (MMOGs) . . . . .	141
Toontown Online . . . . .	144
Toontown's Backstory . . . . .	145
Becoming a Toon . . . . .	145
Safe and Friendly Socializing . . . . .	146
Collecting and Cooperating to Save Toontown . . . . .	147
Panda: The Little Engine that Could . . . . .	148
Toontown Online: A Work in Progress . . . . .	149
15 Virtual Online Worlds: Stories and Engagement . . . . .	151
Expanding the Online Theme Park . . . . .	151
Gameplay and Storyline . . . . .	154
Making the Story "Their Own" . . . . .	155
16 Epilogue . . . . .	159
A Personal Journey with Newton Lee . . . . .	159
Ten Years at Disney Online . . . . .	160
A Chance Meeting with Disney Fellow Dr. Alan Kay . . . . .	166
More Than a Job . . . . .	169
Timeline . . . . .	171
The Beginning . . . . .	171
Establishing Disney . . . . .	172

Television and Theme Parks .....	173
Digital .....	174
The Internet .....	174
Bibliography .....	177
Literature .....	177
Websites .....	179
Online Videos .....	182
Index .....	185

<http://www.springer.com/978-1-4614-2100-9>

Disney Stories

Getting to Digital

Lee, N.; Madej, K.

2012, XVI, 196 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4614-2100-9