

Contents

1	Jamaica	1
1.1	An Unforgettable Introduction to ‘Suga’ Manufacturing	1
1.2	A (Brief) History of Sugar and Jamaica	2
1.2.1	Sugar and Jamaica Were Once Synonymous	2
1.2.2	“Head Sugar”: At Least 500 Years Old, And Still Going	5
1.2.3	Tate & Lyle and Jamaica	10
	References	13
2	Growing Up In Jamaica	15
2.1	Some Things I Learned From My Diabetic Father	15
2.1.1	My First Chemistry Experiment	15
2.1.2	Periwinkle: Diabetes Versus Cancer	17
2.1.3	Saccharin: His Sugar	19
2.2	Schooling	19
2.2.1	Primary	19
2.2.2	Music Versus High School	20
2.3	Clarendon College: Student AND Teacher	22
2.3.1	“If You Come To a Fork in the Road, Take It” (Yogi Berra): Chemistry By Happy Default	25
2.3.2	“Good Fren Betta Dan Pocket Money” Jamaican Proverb	28
3	Canada – Very Fortunately	31
3.1	Queen’s University – By Another Happy Default	31
3.1.1	Fortunately Before the Age of SAT Exams	31
3.1.2	Professor J. K. N. Jones, FRS Comes to Queen’s – My Disastrous Internship	34
3.1.3	Yet Another Hurdle – Physics	35
3.1.4	A Carbohydrate Chemist by Default	36
3.1.5	Graduate School – Curiosity and Serendipity	37
3.1.6	Sugar → Splenda Begins Elsewhere in the Lab – By Accident	38
3.1.7	Crossing the Atlantic Ocean	42

4	London – Hough, Khan and Pfadnis Get Together	43
4.1	Familiarity Bred Excitement	43
4.2	Khan’s Group Made Sucralose—Before It Was Known	44
4.3	Hough’s Group Made “Serendipitose”	45
4.4	EUREKA—Shashikant Phadnis Finds That Serendipitose is Sweet!	46
4.5	Recollections From the “Horses’ Mouths”	46
4.5.1	“Horse” #1: Dr. Shashikant Phadnis (June, 2011)	46
4.5.2	“Horse” #2: Dr. Riaz Khan (October, 2009)	47
4.5.3	“Horse” #3: Professor Les Hough (March, 2010)	47
4.6	A 2011 Retrospective by Professor Leslie Hough	49
5	Sweetness	51
5.1	Tate & Lyle Takes Over	51
5.1.1	Tested By Real Tasters – Or Tasted By Real Testers? . . .	51
5.1.2	Sucralose is Identified	51
5.1.3	The Amazing Human Tongue	52
5.1.4	Some Common Artificial Sweeteners: Varied and Structurally Unrelated	53
5.2	A Comment on Splenda – And “Safety”	55
6	“Luck?”	59
6.1	Serendipity and Discovery	59
6.1.1	I Can’t Believe He Tasted It? And He Was Smoking in the Lab?	61
7	Prepping for the Trial – Swords of Damocles Shall Dangle	63
7.1	This is Not “Law and Order” or “Perry Mason”	63
7.2	Patents, Bloody Patents	64
7.3	The “Allegedly” Infringed Patents	65
7.4	Patent 4,980,463 (the 463 Patent) – The Lynch Pin	66
7.4.1	The Claims – The Dangling “Swords of Damocles”. . . .	68
7.4.2	Sword #1 Mufti/Khan Did It Before. Therefore It’s Not Novel	69
7.4.3	Sword #2 The Office Action	69
7.4.4	Sword #3 What is Proof?	70
7.5	What’s Going On? (With Apologies to Marvin Gaye) The Vilsmeier Battle	71
7.6	The 551 and 969 Patents	72
7.7	My Deposition	73
7.8	Visit to a Factory in China	74
8	Preamble to the Trial	79
8.1	The “MATTER”	79
8.2	Reportage	79
8.3	The Stage	80

8.4	The Cast	80
8.5	The Documents	80
8.6	The 463 Patent Revisited: Again	81
8.6.1	The “Recipe”	81
8.6.2	Why the Fuss About Product#3? A Sword of Damocles?	82
8.6.3	And Also About “In Situ”? Another Sword of Damocles?	82
9	Day One of the Trial	85
9.1	Tutorials	85
9.2	Exchange of Pleasantries and Unpleasantries Began	89
9.3	The Judge’s Rules – Fortunately I Don’t Chew Gum	95
10	Day Two of the Trial	97
10.1	Tate & Lyle’s Lead Attorney Outlines What the Trial Is All About	97
10.2	Tate & Lyle “Big Shots” Versus the Respondents’ Lawyers	101
10.3	A One-Handed Economist – Never ‘On the One Hand, but On the Other’	103
11	Day Three of the Trial	107
11.1	The Cross-Examinations Begin for Real	107
11.2	So You Think You Can Be An Expert?	108
11.3	Was Tin Detected?	111
11.4	The “ In Situ ” Sword of Damocles	114
12	Day Four of the Trial	117
12.1	We Will Have to Get Out of Bed Earlier	117
12.2	Now I Ask You! Would Such Hospitable People Infringe?	117
12.3	Handling of Samples from the Inspection	120
12.4	Analyzing Samples from the Inspection	121
12.4.1	Mr. Barney Presents Dr. Crich to Mr. Smith	121
12.5	Should 463 Have Been Rejected Because of “Obviousness”?	123
13	Day Five of the Trial	129
13.1	Semantics Indeed!	129
13.2	Proof: Law Versus Chemistry	134
13.3	Was the 463 Patent “Anticipated”?	136
14	Day Six of the Trial	139
14.1	If Product #3 is Present Theoretically, Is It Really Present?	139
14.2	An Expert Witness on Both Sides of The Litigation? What Happens Now?	141
14.3	The Words “In Situ” Again: Is the Sword of Damocles in Trouble?	145
14.4	Product #3 Separates the Two Experts	147
14.5	The Kentucky Derby, Maxwell–Boltzmann and Product #3	150

15 Days Seven and Eight of the Trial – My Time on the Witness Stand	155
15.1 Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hnath	155
15.2 Cross-Examination by Counsel for the International Trade Commission Staff	156
15.3 The Mufti/Khan Patent – A Dangling Sword of Damocles	158
15.4 Cross-Examination by the Counsel for the Complainants	160
15.4.1 Mufti/Khan Again – Sword of Damocles Dangles Some More	163
16 Thursday Night – It Was There All the Time!	169
17 Day Eight of the Trial – I Return to the Witness Stand	171
17.1 Friday Morning February 29, 2008. A “Blackboard” Please . . .	171
17.2 Return of the “Office Action”	174
Appendix A: 1958 Chlorination of Sucrose Products Isolated by Jones/Bragg	179
Appendix B: A Perfect Storm of Accidents	183
Appendix C: Some Are Sweet; Some Are Not	189
Appendix D: Sucralose Definitely Non-caloric; Carcinogenic? Very Unlikely	193
Appendix E: Patents Old and New	199
About the Author	211
Epilogue	213

From Sugar to Splenda

A Personal and Scientific Journey of a Carbohydrate
Chemist and Expert Witness

Fraser-Reid, B.

2012, XX, 216 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-642-22780-6