

Contents

1	Innovation Management: Limits of Planning and New Challenges . .	1
	Fritz Böhle and Markus Bürgermeister
1.1	Production Versus Innovation	1
1.2	Uncertainty and Limits of Innovation Planning	3
1.3	Planning-Oriented Innovation Management	4
1.4	Uncertainty and Approaches to an “Other” Kind of Innovation Management	6
	References	7
2	The KES-MI Project	11
	Fritz Böhle, Markus Bürgermeister, and Stephanie Porschen
2.1	Conceptual Basics	12
2.2	Area of Investigation	16
2.3	Overview of Results	17
	References	21
3	Innovation Work: Artistic, Experience-Based, Playful	23
	Fritz Böhle, Karin Orle, and Jost Wagner
3.1	What Is Innovation Work?	23
3.1.1	Scope of Application	24
3.1.2	Requirements	25
3.1.3	Work Action	26
3.2	Work Action in Innovation Work: Outline of a Concept	27
3.3	Subjective Artistic Attitude	29
3.4	Method of Action: Experience-Based	32
3.5	Definition of the Situation: Playful	34
3.6	Overview	37
	References	38

4 Innovation Process: Flexible, Open, Non-linear	41
Markus Bürgermeister
4.1 Overview of the Innovation Process	41
4.2 Concept of the KES-MI Innovation Process	45
4.2.1 Structure of the KES-MI Innovation Process	46
4.2.2 Elements of the KES-MI Innovation Process	52
4.2.2.1 Impulse	52
4.2.2.2 Idea Pool	53
4.2.2.3 Selection and Initiation	54
4.2.2.4 Research	54
4.2.2.5 Development	55
4.2.2.6 Production	56
4.2.2.7 Introduction to the Market/Company	57
4.2.2.8 Assertion Within the Market/Company	58
4.3 Summary	59
References	60
5 Management of the Informal by Situational Project Management	63
Eckhard Heidling
5.1 Projects in Business Network Structures	63
5.2 Project Management in Innovation Processes	68
5.3 Development of Measuring Systems in Networked Structures and Innovation	71
5.3.1 The MetDek Project	72
5.3.2 Further Innovation Projects	76
5.3.3 From Structure to Action in MessTech's Innovation Projects	78
5.4 Innovation Work	79
5.4.1 Artistic Attitude	79
5.4.2 Innovation Work: Experience-Based Method of Action	82
5.4.3 Innovation Work: Playful Definition of the Situation	87
5.5 Situational Project Management: Management of the Informal	89
5.5.1 Promotion of an Artistic Attitude	89
5.5.2 Promotion of an Experience-Based Approach	90
5.5.3 Promotion of Playful Situation Definition	98
5.6 Fundamental Dimensions of Situational Project Management	99
References	100
6 Management of the Informal by Cooperative Transfer of Experience	105
Stephanie Porschen
6.1 Software Development and Innovation	105
6.2 Innovation Work in Software Development	107
6.2.1 Artistic Approach	108
6.2.2 Experience-Based Approach	110
6.2.3 Playful Definition of a Situation	111

6.3	Agile Development Processes	112
6.3.1	Scrum: Organization Technique for the Social Process of Agile Software Development	114
6.4	Agile Development Processes and the Cooperative Transfer of Experience: Management of the Informal	117
6.4.1	Allowing Informal Aspects: Open Goal Definition and Dynamic Planning	118
6.4.2	Involving Employees: Determining Realistic Starting Points Using a Playful Planning Approach	120
6.4.3	Culture of Exchange I: Coordination, Flow of Information and Exchange in Meetings	121
6.4.4	Culture of Exchange II: Creation and Transfer of Knowledge Based on Experience in Informal Cooperation Models	123
6.4.4.1	Pair Programming	123
6.4.4.2	Observational Rotation Model	125
6.4.5	The “Product Taking Shape” as an Object Relaying Knowledge	126
6.4.6	Agility and Cooperative Transfer of Experience as a Challenge of Coaching	128
6.4.6.1	Trainer-Trainee Relationship Without Hierarchical Imbalance: Space for the Dynamic Development of the “Curriculum”	129
6.4.6.2	“Train the Trainer” and Role-Playing	130
6.4.6.3	Openness as a Requirement of Executive Managers and Industrial Partners	131
6.5	Transfers of Agile Processes and the Cooperative Transfer of Experience to Hardware Innovation	131
6.6	Innovation Work and Management of the Informal: New Service Ethics in Software Development	134
6.6.1	Delimitation of Work and Life	135
6.6.2	Estimation Poker as a Selection Instrument?	135
6.6.3	Retrospective Meetings: Is Transparency a Risk?	137
6.7	Closing Remark	140
	References	141
7	Management of the Informal by Decisions Within the Work Process	143
	Judith Neumer
7.1	Production as a “Place” for Innovation	143
7.2	Decisions Outside of and Within the Work Process	147
7.2.1	Decision-Making in Meetings	148
7.2.2	Decision-Making During the Active Work Process	149

7.3	Decisions in the Course of Innovation Work	150
7.3.1	Artistic Attitude in Decision-Making	150
7.3.2	Experience-Based Approach to the Decision-Making Process	152
7.3.3	Playful Definition of Decision-Making Situations	155
7.4	Management of the Informal for Promoting Decisions Within Active Work Processes	158
7.4.1	Work Organization	159
7.4.1.1	Decentralization of Decisions	159
7.4.1.2	Structures Offering Opportunities	160
7.4.1.3	Recognition of Experience-Based Knowledge	163
7.4.2	Leadership	165
7.4.2.1	Dealing with Wrong Decisions	165
7.4.2.2	Relationship Between Planning and Practice	165
7.4.2.3	Searching for Alternatives Is Desired!	166
7.4.2.4	Culture of Trust	166
	References	167
8	Learning Innovation Work: Learning Concept and Framework	171
	Hans G. Bauer, Christiane Hemmer-Schanze, Claudia Munz, and Jost Wagner
8.1	Learning Innovation Competence Cannot Be Domination Learning	171
8.2	Innovation Work: Which Skills Are Required?	175
8.2.1	Innovation-Relevant Skills of Artistic Action	175
8.2.2	Innovation-Relevant Skills of Experience-Based Action	176
8.2.3	Innovation-Relevant Skills of Playful Action	177
8.3	Artistic, Experience-Based, Playful: The Learning Concept	178
8.3.1	Creating Exemplary Learning Situations	180
8.3.2	Preparing and Transforming Work Action	181
8.3.3	Designing the Learning Process	183
8.3.4	Boundary Conditions for Artistic, Experience-Based and Playful Learning for Acquiring Innovation Competence	184
8.3.5	Designing Work to Promote Learning That Develops Competences	185
	References	188
9	Balanced Innovation Management Accounting: Reliable Evaluation and Planning Within the Innovation Process	191
	Markus Bürgermeister
9.1	An Overview of Innovation Controlling	191
9.2	Concept of Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	198
9.2.1	Evaluation in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	198
9.2.1.1	Overview of Evaluation in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	199
9.2.1.2	Procedural Steps for Evaluation in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	202

9.2.2 Planning in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	216
9.2.2.1 Overview of Planning in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	216
9.2.2.2 Open-Ended Nature of Planning in Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	218
9.3 Outlook for Balanced Innovation Management Accounting	220
References	221
The Authors	223
Index	227

Innovation Management by Promoting the Informal
Artistic, Experience-based, Playful

Böhle, F.; Bürgermeister, M.; Porschen, S. (Eds.)

2012, XIV, 230 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-642-28014-6