

Contents

Introduction	xi
1 The Rhetoric of Technical Communication	1
1 Brief History of Technical Communication	3
1.1 Pursuit of the Industrial Arts	8
1.2 Didacticism in Modern Technical Communication	12
1.3 Technical Communication in the Twentieth Century.	15
1.4 Post-WWII Rise of Technical Communication.	17
2 Knowledge Dissemination Through Various Technical Communication Strategies	18
2.1 Popular Technical Communication as Ideologically Mediated Discourse	21
2.2 Science Fiction as a Source of Technical Communication	22
3 Focus on Non-Canonical Technical Communication.	25
3.1 Ideological and Historical Discourse is Germane to Technical Communication Studies	28
References	29
2 Analyzing Technology to Uncover Social Values, Attitudes, and Practices	31
1 Technology is/as Social Construction	33
2 Relevant Social Groups Affix Meaning to Technologies.	35
3 The Rhetoric of Technology	38
3.1 Bazerman’s Example of Edison’s Incandescent Light Bulb	40
3.2 Technology as a Product of Systemic Forces	41
3.3 Rhetorically Constructing Technology Through Democracy	43
3.4 Not Stabilizing Technologies	47

4	Modernism and Technology	49
	References	53
3	Marconi's Representations of the Wireless	57
1	The Wireless's Place in Early Twentieth-Century Science and Technology	60
2	Building a Scientific/Technical Ethos	61
3	Cultural Pride Through Technological Advancement	65
4	Expectations and Current Successes of the Wireless	67
5	The Wireless's Technical Progress and Future Potential	71
6	Applications and Economics	74
7	Patents Showing Marconi's Ownership	77
	References	84
4	Popular Press Representations of Marconi's Wireless	87
1	The Relevance of Journalists and Their Descriptions of the Wireless.	89
2	Marconi's Apotheosis by the Popular Press	92
3	Popular Press Representations of the Wireless as Progression of Past Science	96
4	Popular Press Constructions of Military and Commercial Uses of the Wireless.	100
	References	107
5	Tropes of Progress in F. T. Marinetti's Early Futurist Texts	109
1	Marinetti's Response to the "Cult of Efficiency" Surrounding New Technologies	111
2	The Effect of the Wireless and Other Technologies on Futurist Aesthetics	114
3	A Love of Technology	120
4	Ahistoricity in Marinetti's Aesthetics	121
5	Progress Tropes in Marinetti's Art	125
	References	129
6	Conclusion—STS and Technical Communication: Expansive Possibilities	131
	References	133
7	Notes	135
1	Introduction	135
2	Chapter 1	135
3	Chapter 2	136
4	Chapter 3	139
5	Chapter 4	140
6	Chapter 5	142
	References	144

<http://www.springer.com/978-94-007-3976-5>

Marconi's Wireless and the Rhetoric of a New Technology

Toscano, A.

2012, XX, 145 p. 2 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-94-007-3976-5