

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	References	2
2	Optical Properties of Nanocomposites Containing Metal Nanoparticles	5
2.1	Surface Plasmon Resonance of Isolated Metal Nanoparticles	5
2.2	Optical Properties of Nanocomposites with a High Fraction of Metal Nanoparticles	10
2.3	Preparation and Characterization of Glass Samples Containing Silver Nanoparticles	12
	References	14
3	Interaction of Ultra-Short Laser Pulses with Metal Nanoparticles Incorporated in Dielectric Media	17
3.1	Energy Relaxation Following the Excitation of the Nanoparticle: Weak Perturbation Regime	17
3.2	Electron–Phonon Coupling and Electron Heat Capacity of Silver Under Conditions of Strong Electron–Phonon Non-Equilibrium	19
3.3	Two-Temperature Model for the Strong Excitation Regime	22
3.4	Heat Transfer from the Nanoparticle to the Glass Matrix	23
3.5	Photoemission from Nanoparticles Incorporated in Dielectric Media	25
3.6	Mechanism of the Shape Transformation of Spherical Ag Nanoparticles in Soda-Lime Glass upon fs Laser Irradiation	30
	References	35
4	Effect of Pulse Intensity and Writing Density on Nanoparticle Shape	39
	References	44

5	“Off-Resonant” Excitation: Irradiation
	Wavelength Dependence.	45
5.1	Long Wavelength Irradiation	45
5.2	Subsequent Irradiation	48
5.3	Two-Wavelength Irradiation	49
	Reference	51
6	The Effect of Temperature on the Laser-Induced Modifications of Ag Nanoparticles	53
	References	58
7	Ultra-Short Pulsed Laser Engineering of Metal–Glass Nanocomposites	59
7.1	Fabrication of Sub-Micron Polarizing Structures	59
7.2	Metal–Glass Nanocomposites for Optical Storage of Information.	62
	References	67
8	Conclusion.	69

Ultra-Short Pulsed Laser Engineered Metal-Glass
Nanocomposites

Stalmashonak, A.; Seifert, G.; Abdolvand, A.

2013, XII, 70 p. 38 illus., 36 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-00436-5