1	Introduction	1
1.1	Background and Motivation for the Study	1
1.2	Studies on the Pharmaceutical Sector	5
1.2.1	R&D in the Global Pharmaceutical Industry	5
1.2.2	Extent and Productivity of R&D	5
1.2.3	The Nature or Type of R&D	6
1.2.4	Financing of R&D	6
1.2.5	The Role of Pricing and Marketing in the Pharmaceutical Industry	7
1.2.6	Regulation of the Pharmaceutical Industry	8
1.2.7	Studies Relating to Indian Pharmaceutical Industry	9
1.2.8	Marketing and Entry Barrier in the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry	10
1.2.9	Trans-nationalization Activity of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms	10
1.2.10	Pricing of Pharmaceutical Products and Welfare Related Issues	10
1.3	Research Issues and Gaps	11
1.4	Objectives of the Study	14
1.5	Methodology for the Study	14
1.6	Database Used	15
1.7	Organization of the Book	15
2	An Overview of the Indian Pharmaceutical Sector	17
2.1	Introduction	17
2.2	The Evolution of the Indian Drug and Pharmaceutical Industry	17
2.2.1	The Early Stage of Pharmaceutical Evolution	17
2.2.2	The Amendment of Patent Law and the Implementation of the New Drug Policy (The Second Epoch of Development)	22

2.2.3	The Phase of Liberalization, De-Control and Product Patent (The Third Epoch of Development)	23
2.3	Market Structure and Firm Behavior	24
2.3.1	Economies of Scale in the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry	26
2.3.2	Capital Intensity of the Indian Pharmaceutical Sector	29
2.3.3	Labor Intensity in the Pharmaceutical Sector	30
2.3.4	Extent of Diversification in the Pharmaceutical Industry	31
2.4	Examining the Performance of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms	32
2.4.1	Patterns of R&D Investment in the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry	33
2.4.2	Pattern of R&D Spending in the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry and the Emerging R&D Models	35
2.4.3	The Role of 'Detailing' or Marketing for Indian Pharmaceutical Companies	39
2.4.4	Exploring the Global Market	40
2.5	Conclusions	42
3	The Sources of Heterogeneity in the Efficiency of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms	45
3.1	Introduction	45
3.2	Measurement of Efficiency	46
3.2.1	Non-parametric Measure of Technical Efficiency	47
3.2.2	Determinants of Firm Efficiency	51
3.3	Review of Literature on the Efficiency of the Manufacturing Sector	53
3.4	Data Sources and Modeling Frontiers Over Time	57
3.5	Measuring the Efficiency of the Indian Pharmaceutical Sector	58
3.5.1	Input-Specific Measures of the Efficiency of Firms	59
3.6	Determinants of Efficiency of Firms	62
3.6.1	Strategy Variables	62
3.6.2	Structural Variables	64
3.6.3	Policy Related Variable	65
3.6.4	Findings	65
3.7	Conclusion and Direction for Further Research	69
3.7.1	Limitation and Direction for Further Research	69
4	Comparing Efficiency Across Various Groups of Firms: A Meta-Frontier Approach	73
4.1	Background of the Study	73
4.2	Conceptualizing Different Groups	75
4.3	The Concept of Local and Global Frontiers: A Meta-Frontier Approach	76
4.4	Meta-Frontier Technology and the Existing Empirical Studies	79
4.5	Data Description and Variables Used	81

4.6	Comparison of Technical Efficiency Scores Across Different Groups of Firms	82
4.6.1	Efficiency of Firm with and Without R&D Related Outlays	82
4.6.2	Efficiency of Exporting and Non-exporting Firms	85
4.6.3	Efficiency for Firms from Different Product Groups	89
4.7	Conclusion and Direction for Further Research	92
4.7.1	Direction for Further Research	93
5	Examining the Efficiency, Technical, and Productivity Changes of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms: A Malmquist -Meta Frontier Approach	95
5.1	Background of the Study	95
5.2	Review of Literature on Productivity-Related Issues	97
5.3	The Methodology Employed and the Malmquist Productivity Index	99
5.3.1	Malmquist Productivity Index	99
5.3.2	Empirical Application of the Malmquist Productivity Index	101
5.4	Malmquist Productivity Index for the Meta (Global) and the Local Frontiers	104
5.4.1	Efficiency Change with Respect to Global and Local Frontiers	105
5.5	Determinants of Technical Change	119
5.5.1	Findings from Regression Analysis	120
5.6	Conclusions and Directions for Further Research	123
5.6.1	Directions for Further Research	124
6	Profitability of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms	127
6.1	Introduction	127
6.2	Conceptual Framework	128
6.3	Empirical Studies Related to Profitability	130
6.4	Analysis of Profitability	133
6.4.1	Determinants of Profitability	134
6.4.2	Econometric Specification	138
6.5	Empirical Results And Findings	139
6.5.1	Industry Specific Variables	139
6.5.2	Strategic Variables	140
6.5.3	Firm Specific Variables	142
6.6	Conclusion and Direction for Further Research	143
6.6.1	Directions for Further Research	143

7	The Problem of Availability of Patented Drugs Due to Product Patent and Parallel Trade: A Theoretical Approach	145
7.1	Introduction	145
7.2	The Background	146
7.3	The Analytical Model	149
7.3.1	Options of Price Discrimination	150
7.4	Production in the Developing Country	152
7.5	Parallel Trade	154
7.5.1	Consequences of Parallel Trade in Developing Countries: Some Findings from Field Survey	154
7.5.2	Case1: No Opportunity for Parallel Trade	156
7.5.3	Existence of Parallel Trade	158
7.6	Concluding Remarks and Direction for Further Research	164
7.6.1	Directions for Further Research	165
8	Conclusions and Policy Suggestions	169
8.1	Overview of the Study	169
8.2	Major Findings	171
8.2.1	Major Findings from the Output and the Input Efficiency of Firms	172
8.2.2	Major Findings from the Group-Wise Comparison of the Efficiency of Firms	173
8.2.3	Major Finding from the Productivity of Firms	174
8.2.4	Major Findings from the Profitability Analysis of Indian Pharmaceutical Firms	175
8.2.5	Findings from the Theoretical Analysis of the Problem of Availability of Patented Drugs	176
8.3	Policy Implications	176
8.3.1	Implications for Public Policies	178
