

Contents

1	In Dubio Pro Reo.	1
1.1	Where We Were and Where We Are.	4
1.2	Proportionality from the Evolutionary or the Personal Perspective.	8
1.3	The Inhumanity of Words.	11
1.4	The Inner Human Needs.	12
1.5	Good, Old Retribution	13
1.6	In Dubio Pro Reo, a Human Right?	14
1.7	Risk-Balancing in Practice.	15
1.8	Intuition and Counter-Intuition	19
2	When a Crime is not a Crime.	21
2.1	Lord Denning and the Current Limits on the Necessity Defence	23
2.2	The Provenance of Crime as an Absolute.	25
2.3	Parasitic Paternalism	25
2.4	Typology.	27
2.5	Beyond Good and Evil	29
3	Love and Proportionality	31
3.1	Does Love Exist?: And Does It Matter?	32
3.2	Love as a Force for Good.	33
3.3	Love as a Force for Evil	36
3.4	What Must, Should or Could be Done	38
4	The End Justifying the Means	45
4.1	Ends, Means and the Dangers of Self-Service.	47
4.2	Kant, Means and End	47
4.3	Kant and Cowardice	49

5 True Globalisation	51
5.1 Borders	52
5.2 Common Culture and Political Institutions	53
5.3 Empire, Commonwealth, and the Lost Opportunity	54
5.4 The Inclusiveness of the Virtual Empire	55
5.5 Europe and the Empire	55
5.6 Brain Drain	56
5.7 So Location does not Matter?.	57
5.8 Grow, Grow!.	58
5.9 The Free Mobility of Labour	59
6 Large and Small Crimes	63
6.1 Private and Public Crimes	64
6.2 Please Lie to Me!	65
6.3 Do not Render unto Caesar	67
6.4 If the Individual Would be Subject.	68
6.5 Dreaming a Global Charter	69
7 A Farewell to Evolution	71

<http://www.springer.com/978-94-007-5774-5>

The Principle of Proportionality

Hulsroj, P.

2013, XIII, 76 p., Softcover

ISBN: 978-94-007-5774-5