

Contents

1	Introduction and Overview	1
1.1	Introduction: Being, Having, Doing and Interacting	1
1.2	The Challenge of Poverty and Climate Change	5
1.3	Building Wellbeing Stocks for Future Generations of Life	8
1.3.1	Addressing Complicity Through Subsidiarity, Sustainable Governance and Regionalism	9
1.3.2	Wellbeing and Relationships Underpin Systemic Approaches to Economics	10
2	Vulnerability and Risk: Towards Stewardship of a Post- Carbon Economy	15
2.1	Participatory Democracy and Governance to Mitigate and Adapt to Climate Change	15
2.2	Local Governance Process to Address Perceptions and Choices	23
2.2.1	Learning Ethical Agency	24
2.3	The Max–Neef Human Sustainability Index	29
2.4	Wellbeing and Existential Risk	29
2.4.1	The Implications of Transboundary Democracy and Governance for Accounting and Accountability	29
2.5	Policy Context and Options for Social Democracy	30
2.6	Area of Concern: Adaptation to the Effects and mitigation of the Causes of Climate Change	31
2.7	Wellbeing, Monitory Democracy and Ethical Governance to Protect the Biosphere	32
2.8	Expanding Pragmatism: Praxis to Build Wellbeing Stocks for Future Generations of Life	37
2.9	Enabling Local Communities Through Fostering Cosmopolitan Values	38
2.9.1	Typological Characteristics	39
2.9.2	Options for Engagement	50
2.9.3	Face-to-Face Engagement	51
2.10	Findings: Cultural Ambivalence	58

2.11	Future Policy and Research Direction to Address Representation, Accountability and Sustainability.....	63
2.12	Systemic Praxis to Protect Regional Biospheres	67
2.12.1	Recognition of Vulnerability and Interconnectedness.....	68
2.12.2	Outcomes of the Research	74
3	Facing Up to Fin De Siècle culture	77
3.1	The Pervasive Banality of Evil: Implications for the Notion of Whistle-Blowing, Complicity and Transformation.....	77
3.2	Statement of the Problem.....	78
3.2.1	Representation.....	79
3.2.2	Accountability	81
3.3	Rationale for the Research	81
3.4	Policy Context and Distributive Governance.....	84
3.5	Culture, Identity and Post-national Solidarity.....	89
3.6	Capacity Building for Better Governance Through Ongoing Monitory Democracy	95
4	New Regionalist Monitory Democracy and Governance: A Reply to the So-Called Problem of Cosmopolitan Politics	103
4.1	Introduction: How Can Democracy Avoid Being a So-Called ‘Neo-Liberal Fantasy’?.....	103
4.1.1	Old-Style Democracy Does Not Represent the Will of the People	110
4.1.2	Food Security Through Overlapping Regional Domains	110
4.2	Designing Multilevel, Multi-Agency Governance for Social and Environmental Justice.....	111
4.3	A Way Forward: Towards a Post-Carbon Economy?	116
4.4	Reframing the Future: Implications for Ethics, Democracy and Governance.....	118
4.4.1	Vignette on Freedom, Slavery, Art and Architecture	120
4.5	Food, Energy and Water: A Planetary Problem for Human Security	122
4.5.1	The Environment is Eroded to Prop Up the Failing Economy	123
4.5.2	The Social Contract Is Unravelling to Prop Up the Eroding Environment and Failing Economy.....	125
4.6	Systemic Intervention to Protect Social and Environmental Justice	125
4.6.1	Policing and Profiling ‘the Other’ in Norway.....	128
4.7	Penal States, the Law and Protection for the Displaced.....	130
4.7.1	Human Rights and Implications for Governance Across States	132

5 Greed and Complicity	137
5.1 Who and What Do We Care About?	137
5.2 Addressing the So-called Limits of Democracy and Governance	141
5.3 Excessive Luxury Is Toxic	142
5.4 The Challenges	143
5.5 Transdisciplinarity and Working Across Domains of Knowing	144
5.6 Making Connections Based on our Shared Sense of Vulnerability	148
5.6.1 Recognising both Overlaps and Diversity Within and Beyond Regions	149
5.7 Grasping the Nettle: The Role of Monitory Democracy and Governance in Designing and Directing our Future Development	154
5.8 Recognising Overlapping Biospheres to Protect Systemic Flows and Food	159
5.9 Transformation Through the Right Praxis at the Right Time	166
6 Conclusion Towards a Non Anthropocentric Stewardship Approach	167
6.1 Choosing to Be Stewards of Current and Future Generations of Life	167
7 Post Script: Responding to Existential Risks	169
7.1 Implications for the Way We Live Our Lives	169
7.1.1 Being the Change	170
7.2 Representation, Accountability and Sustainability Based on Communication, Consciousness and Appreciation of Signs	172
7.3 Personal, Political and Planetary Wellbeing	175
7.4 Vignette: Flying to Jakarta in the Wake of the Rift Between Australia and Indonesia	175
7.5 Vignette: Reflection on Art and Diverse Virtues	178
7.6 Concluding Thoughts	180
8 Executive Summary	189
8.1 Stewardship Praxis: Towards Ethical Democracy, Governance and Stewardship	189
Appendix 1: User Guide for Engagement to Address Climate Change Through Participatory Democracy and Governance	193
References	199
Index	219

Transformation from Wall Street to Wellbeing
Joining Up the Dots Through Participatory Democracy and Governance to Mitigate the Causes and Adapt to the Effects of Climate Change

McIntyre, J.

2014, XVI, 221 p. 16 illus., 5 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4899-7465-5