

Contents

1 THE IMPORTANCE AND CHARACTERISTICS OF A GOOD PRESENTATION	1
1.1 Why do presentations and demos?	1
1.2 What kind of presentations do audiences like to see?	2
1.3 What kind of presentations do audiences NOT like to see? ...	3
1.4 What constitutes a professional presentation?	3
1.5 How can I increase my confidence?	4
1.6 What are the dangers of PowerPoint and other presentation software?	5
1.7 How does product training compare to other types of training? ...	6
2 LEARNING FROM OTHER PEOPLE'S PRESENTATIONS	7
2.1 TED.com	7
2.2 TED example 1) Jay Walker: English Mania	8
2.3 TED example 2) Aleph Molinari: Let's bridge the digital divide!	10
2.4 TED example 3) Philippe Starck: Design and destiny	12
2.5 What can we learn from these three TED presentations?	13
2.6 The benefits of TED	13
2.7 Dragon's Den: learn how to pitch your ideas to venture capitalists	14
2.8 Get ideas about what to say at the various stages of your presentation: Google IO	16
2.9 Learn from Steve Jobs	16
2.10 Analyze other people's slides	17
2.11 Assess other people's presentations	18
3 YOUR AUDIENCE AND PREPARING THEM FOR YOUR PRESENTATION	19
3.1 Don't begin with the preparation of your slides	19
3.2 Find out about the audience	20
3.3 Get someone to email you the list of attendees and their roles ...	21
3.4 Find out the numbers of people attending	22
3.5 Use company websites, Google, LinkedIn and Facebook to find out more about the attendees	22

- 3.6 Prepare handouts for demos and training sessions 23
- 3.7 Email the handout in advance 24
- 3.8 Decide when is the best time to give the audience the handout .. 25
- 3.9 For demos, put yourself in the audience’s shoes 26
- 3.10 Be aware of cultural differences 27

- 4 PREPARING A SCRIPT 29
 - 4.1 Decide what you want to say before you start preparing the slides 29
 - 4.2 Create an initial structure 29
 - 4.3 Record yourself chatting about the main topics 30
 - 4.4 Transcribe your recording and then check for naturalness and relevance 31
 - 4.5 Write out your speech—or at least the critical parts 32
 - 4.6 Decide what style to adopt 34
 - 4.7 Choose the right level of formality 35
 - 4.8 Only have one idea per sentence and repeat key words 36
 - 4.9 Break up long sentences that have parenthetical phrases into shorter sentences 37
 - 4.10 Simplify sentences that are difficult to say 38
 - 4.11 Be concise—only say things that add value 39
 - 4.12 Never delay key information: 1) topic 2) explanation and background 40
 - 4.13 Reduce any introductory phrases when describing diagrams and examples 41
 - 4.14 Occasionally say what something cannot do rather than only focusing on what it can do 41
 - 4.15 Have clear transitions from one part of the presentation to the next 42
 - 4.16 Be concise when making transitions 44
 - 4.17 Use a different transition each time you move on to the next point 44
 - 4.18 Vary the grammatical forms that you use in your explanations and don’t introduce each set of similar slides in the same way 45
 - 4.19 Prepare your conclusions 45
 - 4.20 Consider not ending your presentation with a question and answer session 46
 - 4.21 Revise your script to make the language more dynamic and effective 47
 - 4.22 Use your script to write notes to accompany your slides 49
 - 4.23 Use your speech for future presentations 49
 - 4.24 An example showing the advantages of writing a script 50

5 PREPARING YOUR SLIDES	53
5.1 Ensure each slide has a purpose	53
5.2 Decide which points do not need an associated slide	54
5.3 Limit yourself to one idea per slide	54
5.4 Choose and effective title slide	55
5.5 Decide on a system of capitalization for titles and subtitles ...	56
5.6 Minimize the number of items on your agenda slide	58
5.7 Don't create a slide without thinking what you are going to say about it	60
5.8 Avoid too much text and complete sentences	61
5.9 Help audiences with low level English	62
5.10 Be careful how you use numerical examples	63
5.11 Explain processes through well chosen slide titles	63
5.12 Illustrate part of a process rather than the entire process	64
5.13 Ensure that everything your write on your slides is 100% grammatically correct	64
5.14 Check the spelling and use of capital letters	65
5.15 Prepare a sequence of identical copies of your last slide	66
5.16 Modify your script on the basis of the slides	66
5.17 Modify an existing presentation that someone else has created	67
6 HOW TO REDUCE THE AMOUNT OF TEXT AND NUMBER OF CHARACTERS	69
6.1 Remember that text on a slide differs from normal text	69
6.2 Don't repeat the title of the slide within the main part of the slide	69
6.3 Choose the shortest forms possible	70
6.4 Use only well-known acronyms, abbreviations, contractions and symbols	70
6.5 Reduce the number of zeros	71
6.6 Use the plural form of nouns to save space	71
6.7 Cut brackets containing text	71
6.8 Use verbs and modals rather than nouns	72
6.9 Remove the, this, our	72
6.10 Don't put text in your slides to say what you will do or have done during your presentation	72
7 USING BULLETS	73
7.1 Choose the most appropriate type of bullet	73
7.2 Limit yourself to six bullets per slide	73
7.3 Keep to a maximum of two levels of bullets	74
7.4 Do not use a bullet for every line in your text	75
7.5 Choose the best order for the bullets	75

- 7.6 Use one-at-a-time bullet animation only if absolutely necessary 76
- 7.7 Make good use of the phrase that introduces the bullets 76
- 7.8 Use verbs not nouns 77
- 7.9 Be grammatically consistent 78
- 7.10 Minimize punctuation in bullets 79

- 8 USING AND COMMENTING ON DIAGRAMS AND PROCESSES 81
 - 8.1 Simplify everything 81
 - 8.2 Only include visuals that you intend to talk about 81
 - 8.3 Avoid visuals that force you to look at the screen 81
 - 8.4 Use visuals to help your audience understand 82
 - 8.5 Make sure your slide can be read by the audience in the back row 83
 - 8.6 Choose fonts, characters, and sizes with care 83
 - 8.7 Limit the use of animations 84
 - 8.8 Use color to facilitate audience understanding 84
 - 8.9 Make your graphs come alive 85

- 9 PRONUNCIATION AND INTONATION 87
 - 9.1 Create lists of your key words and learn their pronunciation 87
 - 9.2 Use online resources to find the correct pronunciation of individual words 88
 - 9.3 Practise your pronunciation by following transcripts and imitating the speaker 90
 - 9.4 Learn any irregular pronunciations 90
 - 9.5 Be very careful of English technical words that also exist in your language 91
 - 9.6 Practice the pronunciation of key words that have no synonyms 92
 - 9.7 Be careful of -ed endings 92
 - 9.8 Consider using a multisyllable word rather than a monosyllable word 93
 - 9.9 Use synonyms for words on your slides that you cannot pronounce 93
 - 9.10 Use your normal speaking voice, but don't speak too fast 94
 - 9.11 Vary your voice and speed 95
 - 9.12 Help the audience to tune in to your accent 95
 - 9.13 Use your outline slide to introduce key terminology 96
 - 9.14 Use stress to highlight the key words 97
 - 9.15 Enunciate numbers very clearly 97
 - 9.16 Avoid er, erm, ah 98
 - 9.17 Mark up your script and then practice reading it aloud 99
 - 9.18 Reading your script aloud during the presentation 101

10	USAGE OF TENSES AND VERB FORMS	103
10.1	It's OK to make mistakes in the main body of the presentation	103
10.2	Getting to know the audience (small demo)	105
10.3	Webcast introduction / Large-scale very formal presentation ...	105
10.4	Outline / Agenda – informal demo or presentation	106
10.5	Outline / Agenda – formal presentation or webcast (possibly with several speakers)	107
10.6	Giving background details	107
10.7	Presenting financial highlights	108
10.8	Describing your company	108
10.9	Describing your role in the company	109
10.10	Referring to future points in the presentation	109
10.11	Answering audience questions during the presentation	110
10.12	Mentioning the design and development phases of a product or service	110
10.13	Talking about how you prepared your slides	110
10.14	Making transitions	111
10.15	Highlighting what is on a slide	111
10.16	Explaining figures, tables, charts and diagrams	112
10.17	Indicating level of certainty	112
10.18	Conclusions: formal presentation / webcast	113
10.19	Conclusions: demos and less formal presentations	113
10.20	Q & A Session	114
11	CONDUCTING A PRESENTATION, DEMO, OR TRAINING COURSE WITH A FACE-TO-FACE AUDIENCE OR VIA VIDEO CONFERENCE	115
11.1	If some participants arrive early, exploit the opportunity to ask them questions.	115
11.2	Get to know your audience when they are all present	116
11.3	Before you start find out the names of the people in your audience	117
11.4	Position yourself and your laptop where your audience can see you	117
11.5	Give a clear signal that you are going to begin, then give your agenda	118
11.6	Tell them how they will benefit from the demo and also what you are not going to do	120
11.7	Optimize your agenda when your demo shows an update or new release of a product / service	121
11.8	Begin your demo in a dynamic way	122
11.9	Motivate your audience: don't focus on what they already know and don't sound negative	123
11.10	Show a slide. Then pause before you begin talking	124

- 11.11 Use you not I 124
- 11.12 Explain components and features in terms of how the audience will use them, but don't explain the obvious 125
- 11.13 Move your cursor slowly around the screen 125
- 11.14 Focus on examples, not on theory 126
- 11.15 Don't overload the audience with too many concepts 127
- 11.16 Learn how to gauge the audience's reactions 127
- 11.17 Constantly elicit audience feedback on how to improve your product and services 128
- 11.18 Responding to attendees' feedback 128
- 11.19 Promote an atmosphere where everyone feels relaxed about giving feedback 129
- 11.20 Tell the audience when you are 10 minutes from the end 129
- 11.21 Exploit your concluding slide to leave a positive last impression 130
- 11.22 Before saying goodbye give any further details 131

12 CONDUCTING A DEMO / TRAINING VIA AN AUDIO

- CONFERENCE CALL 133
- 12.1 Be aware of the typical problems 133
- 12.2 Consider not using audio conference calls for non-interactive demos 135
- 12.3 Exploit the advantages of audio calls over face-to-face presentations 137
- 12.4 Find out about the audience and have the mailing list of those attending 137
- 12.5 If possible, have a member of your team on site at the client's offices 138
- 12.6 Ensure that everything is OK from a technical point of view ... 138
- 12.7 Begin the call with some introductions 139
- 12.8 Set some ground rules 141
- 12.9 Don't use exactly the same style as you would in a video or face-to-face demo 143
- 12.10 Number your slides and constantly remind the audience where you are 143
- 12.11 Make sure your demo is interactive and not robotic 144
- 12.12 Learn how to deal with on-the-spot oral questions 146
- 12.13 Announce clearly that you are about to conclude the call 146
- 12.14 After each session, revise your demo to improve it 147
- 12.15 Get feedback on your performance 147

13	GENERATING QUESTIONS DURING A DEMO / TRAINING SESSION.....	149
13.1	Understand the importance of asking your participants questions	149
13.2	Don't just ask 'OK?' to check understanding	151
13.3	Ask direct but non-threatening questions (face-to-face / video)	152
13.4	Use your body language to encourage the audience to ask you questions (face-to-face / video)	154
13.5	Choose specific people to answer questions (audio calls) ...	154
13.6	Tailor your questions to particular people	155
13.7	Say something positive about the individual to whom you are addressing the question	155
13.8	Give attendees a chance to prepare their answers	156
13.9	Get participants to explain things to each other	157
13.10	Schedule a break for dealing with participants' questions	158
13.11	Incorporate questions into your slides	159
13.12	Decide the best way to phrase your question slides	161
13.13	Have recap slides in addition to or as an occasional alternative to questions slides	161
13.14	Go over any key points more than once	162
13.15	Signal to the participant that you are listening to and following his / her question	162
14	MAKING YOUR DEMO / TRAINING INTERACTIVE: SETTING TASKS	163
14.1	Always mix theory with practice	163
14.2	Decide the best tasks to give participants	164
14.3	Give clear instructions when setting tasks	164
14.4	Don't read aloud the task outlined in your slides	165
14.5	Use the whiteboard or a new window on the shared desktop	165
14.6	Don't wait for everyone to finish the task	165
14.7	Give participants positive feedback	166
14.8	Avoid distractions: Get attendees to share a PC	166
14.9	Ensure that every training session / demo is interactive and contains a practise session	166
14.10	Break up your demo with fun activities	167
15	ANSWERING QUESTIONS	171
15.1	Prepare in advance for all possible questions	171
15.2	Include the topic of questions in your agenda	172
15.3	Repeat the questions	172
15.4	Only interrupt a questioner when strictly necessary	173

15.5	Involve all the audience, don't just give eye contact to the questioner	173
15.6	Help the audience to think of questions	174
15.7	Learn how to recognize if someone wants to ask a question and how to respond	174
15.8	Be concise	174
15.9	Never make a participant lose face	175
15.10	Remember that it is not necessarily your fault if you can't understand the question	177
15.11	Learn strategies to help you understand and clarify questions	178
15.12	If you are co-presenting, make sure you agree beforehand how to answer questions	180
15.13	Terminate the Q&A session if you feel you are wasting time	180
16	PRACTISING YOUR PRESENTATION	181
16.1	Don't improvise. Practise exactly what you are going to say ..	181
16.2	Practice your position relative to the screen	183
16.3	Don't sit. Stand and move around	184
16.4	Use your hands	184
16.5	Have an expressive face and smile	185
16.6	Vary the parts you practise	185
16.7	Use shorter and shorter phrases	185
16.8	Prepare for forgetting what you want to say	186
16.9	Opt to do presentations in low risk situations and put yourself at the center of attention in social situations	186
16.10	Learn how to be self critical: practice with colleagues	187
16.11	Think about what slides you could delete	189
16.12	Email your presentation to your boss and colleagues	190
16.13	Learn relaxation techniques	191
16.14	Check out the room where your presentation will be	192
16.15	Prepare for the software or the equipment breaking down	192
16.16	Organize your time	193
17	IMPROVING YOUR SKILLS AS A PRESENTER AND TRAINER	195
17.1	Learn how to gain and keep your audience's attention ...	195
17.2	Don't make your agenda look unfeasible	196
17.3	Maintain eye contact with the audience	196
17.4	Exploit moments of high audience attention	196
17.5	Don't tell the audience everything you know, only what they need to know	197
17.6	Don't refer to everything on your slide	197
17.7	Avoid details / exceptions etc	198
17.8	Don't spend too long on one slide	198
17.9	Learn techniques for regaining the audience's attention ..	199

17.10	Make sure what you say contains new information	200
17.11	Present apparently old information in a new way	200
17.12	Underline relevance and value	201
17.13	Explain or paraphrase words that may be unfamiliar to the audience	201
17.14	Repeat key words and concepts frequently	202
17.15	Use breaks	202
17.16	Enjoy yourself: Sound like you are talking to a colleague	203
17.17	Inject some humor	205
17.18	Don't talk for more than a few minutes at a time	206
17.19	Give frequent examples	206
17.20	Constantly remind the audience of the big picture	206
17.21	Write new slides just before the presentation begins or during a break	207
17.22	Improve your slides after the presentation	207
18	USEFUL PHRASES: ALL TYPES OF PRESENTATIONS	209
18.1	Preliminaries and introductions	209
18.2	Outlining agenda	210
18.3	Moving from slide to slide and topic to topic	211
18.4	Emphasizing, qualifying and explaining	213
18.5	Describing slides and diagrams	215
18.6	Dealing with problems	216
18.7	Asking and answering questions	217
18.8	Ending the presentation / demo	219
19	USEFUL PHRASES: INFORMAL TECHNICAL DEMO.....	221
19.1	Before the demo (face-to-face)	221
19.2	Before the demo (audio and video conference)	221
19.3	Introductions and agendas	223
19.4	Checking and clarifying	226
19.5	Demonstrating / giving tasks	226
19.6	Talking about enhancements to products and services	228
19.7	Asking the audience questions	229
19.8	Managing the day's events, concluding	231
20	USEFUL PHRASES: FORMAL BUSINESS PRESENTATIONS	233
20.1	Introductions	233
20.2	Agenda	234
20.3	Describing your company	234
20.4	Transitions and conclusions	235
	THE AUTHOR	237
	Index	239

<http://www.springer.com/978-1-4939-0643-7>

Presentations, Demos, and Training Sessions

A Guide to Professional English

Wallwork, A.

2014, XXI, 240 p. 9 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-1-4939-0643-7