

Contents

1	Can Business Be a Moral Enterprise?	1
1.1	From the Ancient and Medieval Worlds to the Modern	2
1.1.1	Aristotle and the Ancient World's Class System	2
1.1.2	The Monastic Movement and the Work Ethic	3
1.1.3	The Elements of the New System: Burghers, Contracts, and Private Property	4
1.1.4	Utilitarianism and The Wealth of Nations	5
1.1.5	Benjamin Franklin and the Bourgeois Tradesman	8
1.2	The Corporation and the Moral Dilemmas	9
1.2.1	The Nature and Workings of the Corporation	10
1.2.2	Funds, Buyouts, and Takeovers: The Corporate Dilemma	12
1.3	Factories, Workers, and Moral Protest	14
1.3.1	Thomas Malthus, David Ricardo, & the Iron Law of Wages	14
1.3.2	The Moral Response	16
1.3.3	The Opening in the System	20
1.3.4	The Human Factor: Legislation and Labor Unions	21
2	Employee Rights and Responsibilities: The Internal Constituencies of Business	25
2.1	Introduction	25
2.2	Justice	26
2.2.1	Non-Discrimination in Hiring and Promoting	26
2.3	Privacy and Civil Rights	35
2.3.1	The Rubber Hits the Road: Testing and Monitoring	35
2.3.2	Employment at Will?	42
2.4	Protection of Health and Safety	43
2.4.1	Hazards in the Workplace	43
2.4.2	Representative Dilemmas in Workplace Health and Safety	45
2.4.3	Safety and Health as Cultural Problems	49
2.4.4	Mommy Tracks	50

2.5	Dignity, and Protection from Harassment	52
2.5.1	Sexual Harassment	52
2.5.2	Fostering Dignity: Respect and Participation	54
2.6	Integrity, and Respect for Moral Choices	55
2.6.1	Blowing the Whistle: Definition and Justification	56
2.6.2	The Corporation and the Whistle	58
2.7	Conclusion	60
3	Customers, Community, and World: The External
	Constituencies of Business	63
3.1	Quality	64
3.1.1	Introduction	64
3.1.2	The Safety of the Car	66
3.1.3	Strict Liability	69
3.1.4	A Case of Corporate Versus Consumer Liability: The Silicon Implant.	71
3.1.5	Making Policy on Safety and Quality	74
3.1.6	For Now: Two Practical Guides for Behavior.	75
3.2	Truthfulness, or Veracity	76
3.2.1	Packaging and Labeling.	77
3.2.2	Sales and Advertising	78
3.3	Good Citizenship.	83
3.3.1	Responsiveness to the Local Community	83
3.3.2	Honesty in Financial Transactions.	85
3.4	Consistency in Application of Principles Abroad.	90
3.4.1	Bribery, Extortion, and Other Irregular Payments	90
3.4.2	Sweatshops: Workers' Rights in the Developing Nations	91
3.4.3	Sales and Marketing to the Developing Nations	92
3.5	Stewardship of the Natural Environment	94
3.5.1	The Win–Win Scenarios	96
3.5.2	The Win–Lose Scenarios	96
3.5.3	The Lose–Lose Scenarios.	97
3.5.4	Assuming Stewardship.	98
3.6	Conclusion	99

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-00869-1>

Business Ethics in the Social Context
Law, Profits, and the Evolving Moral Practice of Business

Newton, L.H.

2014, X, 100 p., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-00869-1