

Contents

1	Growing up in Copenhagen	1
1.1	Copenhagen, 1833	1
1.2	Jews in Denmark	3
1.3	Family and Early Years	4
1.4	Education	8
1.5	Gazing into the Heavenly Light	12
	References	15
2	Psychology Without a Soul	17
2.1	The Lure of Metaphysical Longings	17
2.2	A Bon Papa Sort of Man	29
2.3	A Quality of Familiarity	35
2.4	Food for Thought	37
2.5	Tutorials in the Philosophical Factory	39
	References	44
3	Apprentice in Lehmann's Laboratory	47
3.1	The Psychologist Dares not Experiment on the Soul	47
3.2	The Intrepid Experimenter	52
3.3	Aristotle and Socrates in Copenhagen	58
3.4	Ekliptika	67
3.5	Paradoxical Warmth	69
3.6	Magister Artium	74
	References	79
4	Triumph and Tragedy in Academia	83
4.1	Sympathetic Understanding	83
4.2	Purgatory in Göttingen	85
4.3	Høffding's Last Lecture	88
4.4	Rubin's Revolution in Perception	90
4.4.1	Figure and Ground	90
4.4.2	The Areal Figure, The Contour, The Stroke	103

4.5	The Boat of My Soul Staggers	109
4.6	Høffding's Successor	111
	References	120
5	Philosopher or Psychologist	123
5.1	Competing for a Professorate	123
5.2	The Metaphysician in Overalls	130
5.3	Lehmann's Successor	134
5.4	The End of an Era	138
5.5	Drawn Unto the Gestalt Bandwagon	146
	References	152
6	The Aspective Psychologist	155
6.1	Explorations in the Human Sensorium	155
6.2	An Old-Fashioned Introspectionist	165
6.3	Playing the Part of Your Bad Conscience	170
6.4	Popularizing Psychology	171
6.5	Pest Over Europe	176
6.6	A Taste for England	181
6.7	Aspective Psychology	183
6.8	Occupation, Arrest, and the Flight to Sweden	185
	References	191
7	Final Years and Legacy	195
7.1	The Return from Sweden	195
7.2	Remembering Rubin	198
7.3	Rubin and Bohr	204
7.4	The Consummate Observer	210
7.5	Rubin's Vase	214
	References	216
	Index	219
	Name Index	225

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-01061-8>

Edgar Rubin and Psychology in Denmark

Figure and Ground

Pind, J.L.

2014, X, 228 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-01061-8