

Contents

1	Antitrust: The “Other” Mode of Analysis	1
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	Deconstruction, Justice, and Antitrust	3
1.2.1	Injustice in Traditional Antitrust	5
1.2.2	The Way Forward	10
1.3	Constructing the Procedure for Justice as Inclusiveness	14
1.3.1	Habermas’ Communicative/Discourse Ethics	15
1.3.2	Person-Centred Approach	18
1.4	Conclusion	19
	References	20
2	Person-Centred Approach	23
2.1	Introduction	23
2.2	Person-Centred Summarised	24
2.2.1	Substantive Aspect	24
2.2.2	Enforcement Aspect	25
2.3	Value of the Person-Centred Approach Vis-à-Vis Top-Down Perspectives	26
2.4	The Person-Centred Requirements	27
2.4.1	A Flexible Framework	27
2.4.2	Adequate Information	35
2.5	The Requirement of Broadness Expatiated	39
2.5.1	Broadness Applied: The Example of Enforcement	42
2.5.2	Is Broadness Becoming the Norm in Antitrust Analysis?	45
2.6	Delimiting the Scope of the Broadness Sought	47
2.7	Conclusion	51
	References	51

3	Antitrust Rights	53
3.1	Introduction	53
3.2	Accounts of Right	54
3.2.1	Neutral Rights	54
3.2.2	Freedom-Based Right	55
3.2.3	Welfare-Based Rights	56
3.2.4	Eclectic Account of Right	58
3.3	Nature of Antitrust Right	60
3.3.1	What Is/Are the Foundation(s) of Antitrust Right?	61
3.3.2	How Should Antitrust Right Be Analysed?	66
3.4	Enforcing Antitrust Right	72
3.5	Conclusion	76
	References	76
4	Capability Approach: The Framework for the Person-Centred Analysis	79
4.1	Introduction	79
4.2	Broadness Conditions in the Assessment of Wellbeing	80
4.3	Testing Theories Against the Requirements of Broadness	85
4.3.1	Total Welfare	85
4.3.2	Wealth Transfer	89
4.3.3	Consumer Choice	92
4.3.4	Behavioural Law and Economics	94
4.3.5	General Equilibrium and Public Policy	95
4.3.6	Economic Freedom	98
4.4	Eclectic Platform for Antitrust	100
4.4.1	Philosophy	101
4.4.2	Differentiated Normative Approach	103
4.4.3	Sen's Capability Approach	106
4.5	Capability Approach as the Platform for Antitrust Analysis	107
4.5.1	Capability Approach Detailed	107
4.5.2	Capability Approach and the Requirements of the Person-Centred Approach	110
4.5.3	Capability and Traditional Antitrust Theories	114
4.6	Illustrating Capability as the Ideal Broad Framework Vis a Vis Other Theories	119
4.6.1	Capability Approach and Tying	120
4.6.2	Capability Approach and Other Issues Under Article 101 and 102	130
4.7	Conclusion	132
	References	133
5	Antitrust Pluralism and Justice	137
5.1	Introduction	137
5.2	Broadness and the Informational Focus for Antitrust	138
5.2.1	The Process Aspect	139

5.3	Antitrust Pluralism	145
5.3.1	Ascertaining	146
5.3.2	Choosing	160
5.4	Conclusion	173
	References	174
6	Person-Centred Approach and Antitrust Enforcement	177
6.1	Introduction	177
6.2	Ills of Cartels	178
6.3	Enforcement Efforts	179
6.3.1	Detection	180
6.3.2	Penalising	181
6.4	The Potential Harm to Persons' Interests	182
6.5	Incremental Enforcement: The Example of Restitution	188
6.5.1	Devenish Case	188
6.5.2	The Grant of Restitutionary Remedies in European Competition Law Cases	189
6.5.3	The Application of Restitution	190
6.5.4	Devenish Case Detailed	192
6.6	Incremental Enforcement: Effective Leniency programme v Right	196
6.6.1	Pfleiderer Case	196
6.6.2	Court of Justice's Ruling	197
6.6.3	Implication of the Decision and Potential for Incremental Enforcement	198
6.7	Conclusion	199
	References	201
7	Conclusion	203
7.1	International Antitrust Law	205
7.2	Person-Centred Enforcement	207
	References	208
	Bibliography	209

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-01723-5>

Antitrust: The Person-centred Approach

Al-Ameen, H.A.

2014, XIII, 214 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-01723-5