

Contents

1 Introduction	1
A Health Warning	1
What's the Point of Communication in Medicine?	3
Styles of Communication	9
The Democratic Encounter	11

Part I Communication in Medicine: Democracy and Its Discontents

2 Communication Hypocompetence: An Iatrogenic Epidemic	21
Introduction	21
An Epidemic of Medicine's Own Making	22
Communication Skills Training	24
The Role of the Medical Humanities	25
Evidence	27
Conclusion	29
3 Democracy in Medicine	31
Medicine Is by Nature a Political Domain	31
Articulating a Common Wealth	33
Democracy and Its Discontents	37
Medical Education Can Democratize Medicine	40
4 Patient-Centredness Without a Centre	47
Mutuality as a Model of Care	47
Communication and Clinical Reasoning	51
5 How Physicians Think Can Be Judged from How They Listen and Speak	57
For the Hardened Students of Communication Only	57
Communication Is (Necessarily) Ambiguous	62

6	A New Wave of Patient-Centredness	67
	Introduction	67
	Journeys Without Maps	68
	The Many Faces of Patient-Centredness	69
	A Brief History of Patient-Centredness	71
7	Models of Patient-Centred Care	79
	Where Is 'Patient-Centredness' Centred?	79
	Classification of Types of Patient-Centredness	81
	Paternalism as Patient-Centredness	81
	Patient-Centredness as Varieties of Patient Autonomy	82
	Empowerment	82
	Advocacy	84
	Patient-Centredness as Varieties of Collaboration and Mutuality	84
	Patient as Catalyst for Interprofessional Activity	84
	Mutuality: Relationship-Centred Care Model	85
	Deeper Mutuality: Psychodynamics and the Therapeutic Alliance	86
	Local Ecosystem	87
	Clinical Reasoning Model	88
	Pedagogical (Learning and Teaching) Model	89
	'Difference' Model	91
	Intertextuality Model	92
	Patient-Centredness as Patient Connectedness in Online Communities Model	93
	Dysfunctional: Default Care	93
8	What Is Meant by 'Empathy'?	95
	Education for Communication Must Go Deeper Than 'Skills'	95
	All About Empathy	100
	Communication, Virtue, and Virtuosity	103
9	Gender Matters in Medical Education	111
	Introduction: The Gender Shift in Medicine	111
	Does Gender Matter?	112
	A Feminist Medical Education	114
	Women Doctors in the Workforce	116
	Drawing on Women's Studies to Enrich Medical Education: Gendered Ways of Thinking	119
	Challenging Binary Thinking	121
	'Liquid' Thinking and the Use of Metaphor	123
	As Medicine Is Feminized, Will Medical Education Follow?	125

Part II Deep Theorizing in Communication in Medicine: Relationships Between Team Process and Practitioner Identity

10	Working and Learning in ‘Teams’ in a New Era of Health-Care.....	129
	From Jigsaws to Systems	129
	What Is a ‘Team’?	132
	‘Nets’ and ‘Knots’ in Team-Based Learning	135
11	Theorizing Team Process Through Cultural–Historical Activity Theory (CHAT): Networking and Knotworking	139
	A Networking Primer.....	139
	A Knotworking Primer	140
	Two Ways of Coming Together: Metaphor and Metonymy.....	142
	Decolonizing Teamwork to Open Up New Horizons	144
12	Theorizing Team Process Through a Foucauldian Perspective: Gaining a Voice in Team Activity at the Clinical Coalface	149
	‘I Was Unhappy with Him to Carry on’: Fearless Speech and Moral Courage in New Team Work Settings	149
	Parrhēsia.....	152
	Speaking Up and Speaking Out	154
	Dialogical Climates and Hospitality	159
	Conclusions.....	161
13	Theorizing Team Process Through Actor-Network-Theory (ANT): Communication Practice as a Theory in Action.....	163
	Prologue	163
	Section I: The Architecture of ANT	164
	Introduction.....	164
	ANT Offers an Apology	164
	What Are Actors and Networks and How Do They Link?	165
	Symmetry Between Humans, Material Objects, and Immaterial Languages	166
	What Are Networks?.....	168
	Feasibility.....	170
	Section II: Let’s Go to Work! ANT as a Research Methodology	170
	Introduction.....	170
	Problematization	171
	Initiation of a Network: Champions Meet Sceptics	174
	Funding	175
	A Multiprofessional Conference.....	176
	Hard and Soft Design.....	176
	Team Self-Review	177
	Networking with Clinicians and Academics.....	177
	Research Texts	178

Public Engagement Through the Arts	178
Work-Net/Network Effects	179
Section III: Limitations to ANT-Based Research	180
ANT Research Demands Specialists	180
Can ANT Demand Both Precision and Ambiguity?.....	180
Does ANT Support Animism?.....	181
Resisting Reduction	182
14 Theorizing Team Process Through Deleuzian Rhizomatics:
Becoming a Medical Professional in Nomadic Teams.....	183
Introduction: From Being to Becoming	183
Deleuzian Becoming: Processes and Assemblages	187
Three Planes of Becoming.....	189
Becoming a Diagnostician	193
The Undoing of the Modern Clinical Gaze.....	193
Becoming Medical Professionals Through New,
Work-Based Textual Practices	196
‘Medutainment’: Reflexive Accounting in the Public Realm.....	202
15 Team Process and Complexity Theory: Blunting Occam’s Razor	205
Learning as a Complex Activity	205
Learning Theory at the Cutting Edge.....	207
A Close Shave with Occam’s Razor	207
Contrasting Approaches to Complexity Theory	207
Three Approaches to Learning as a Complex
Social Phenomenon.....	208
What Unit of Analysis?.....	210
Attractors and Dissipative Structures.....	211
Patterns of Resistance to the Values Advertised
by Complexity Theory	212
Learning Defined	213
The Conditions of Possibility for the Emergence of Complexity
Theory as an Explanatory Model in Medical Education	214
16 Building a Collaborative Community of Practice
in Medical Education Research	217
What Is a ‘Collaborative’ Community of Medical Education Researchers?	217
Three Platforms for Collaboration	219
Conditions for Collaboration	221
Developing Interdisciplinarity	221
Aligning Epistemologies, Axiologies, and Ontologies.....	227

Part III A Brief but Provocative Conclusion

17 Conclusion: Professing Medical Identities in the Liquid World of Teams 233
 Putting Medicine on the Couch..... 233
 Professing Medicine..... 236

References 239

Author Index..... 259

Subject Index..... 263

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-02486-8>

Patient-Centred Medicine in Transition

The Heart of the Matter

Bleakley, A.

2014, XIII, 267 p. 4 illus., 1 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-02486-8