

Contents

Dedication.....	ix
Foreword.....	xi
Acknowledgements.....	xv
Illustrations.....	xvii
Prologue.....	xxiii
1 Creating a Mercury capsule.....	1
With eyes to the future	1
The concepts of Max Faget	5
Space Task Group	6
A space capsule evolves.....	9
A contract is awarded	11
Development of the capsule.....	14
Of pigs and astronaut couches	17
Protecting the astronauts	20
Mercury astronauts	21
Mercury capsule takes shape	23
Parachute systems	26
Final configuration	30
Moving to the Cape.....	31
Astronaut water survival training.....	36
The first Mercury-Atlas shot.....	38
Mercury Spacecraft No. 2	41
A chimpanzee soars	46
2 An astronaut named Gus.....	55
A man of few words.....	55
Joining the Air Force	57
The making of an astronaut.....	59
Some personal reflections	62

3	Preparing for launch	67
	First spaceman	67
	An unnerving incident.....	69
	Training intensifies.....	71
	First to fly	74
	Checks and reviews.....	76
	Final preparations.....	78
	Grissom named to flight.....	81
	A girdle around the world	85
	Ready to go	87
	Second attempt.....	91
4	The flight of Liberty Bell 7	101
	A morning filled with optimism.....	101
	Launch preparations continue	107
	Countdown holds	110
	Into the wild blue yonder	112
	Return to Earth.....	118
5	An astronaut in peril	123
	Helicopter recovery pilot	123
	At the ready.....	125
	Countdown to recovery	128
	Preparing for a pickup.....	129
	Astronaut overboard!	131
	A sinking spacecraft.....	136
	Close to death.....	137
	Safely aboard	143
	Dean Conger Recalls.....	149
	Waterlogged, but well	153
6	One program ends, another begins	161
	Hometown hero.....	161
	Celebrations continue.....	165
	The proud state of Indiana	168
	Grand Bahama Island.....	168
	Back at the Cape	172
	“Grissom did not blow the hatch”	178
	Interviewing the astronaut.....	181
	Further thoughts	183
	A revealing possibility	186
	A change of procedures	189
	On to Gemini.....	191
	Gus and the doctors.....	194

7 A tale of two hatches	199
The first Gemini crew	200
Ejection seats and a faulty hatch	204
The “unsinkable” Molly Brown	206
Two men in space	207
Apollo commander	211
A fatal fire	214
No way out	217
A nation in mourning	219
8 Epilogue: From the depths of the ocean	223
A childhood fascination with space	223
Further investigations	224
A major breakthrough	226
First expedition	227
Finding a lost spacecraft	231
A spacecraft finally lands	233
Final thoughts	234
A restoration task like no other	236
The restoration of Liberty bell 7 (by Keith Scala)	236
Appendices	245
Editorial from the New York Times newspaper, 22 July 1961	267
About the author	269
Index	271

Liberty Bell 7

The Suborbital Mercury Flight of Virgil I. Grissom

Burgess, C.

2014, XXV, 275 p. 191 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-04390-6