Part I The William James Lectures on Dream Consciousness

1	Introduction . . . . .	3
	J. Allan Hobson
2	Lecture I: Psychology . . . . .	9
	J. Allan Hobson
3	Lecture II: Physiology . . . . .	29
	J. Allan Hobson
4	Lecture III: Philosophy . . . . .	51
	J. Allan Hobson

Part II Commentaries

5	Do You Still Hold to an Activation Only Theory of the REM Sleep-Dreaming Correlation? . . . . .	83
	John Antrobus
6	What Is the Most Promising Avenue to New Understanding of the Sleep-Learning Process? . . . . .	87
	Mercedes Atienza and José L. Cantero
7	Are You Convinced That Dreaming Is A Conscious State? . . . . .	91
	Susan Blackmore
8	Your PET Studies Demonstrate Major Differences Between REM Sleep and Waking. How Do You Conceive of These Differences in Relation to Theories of Waking and Dreaming Consciousness? . . .	95
	Allen R. Braun

9	How Does Your Formulation of Lesion-Induced States of Diminished Consciousness Fit with AIM? Do You Suppose That Brain Stem Damage Affects Activation (A) and Modulation (M)? . . . . .	101
	Vanessa Charland-Verville and Steven Laureys
10	Does Your “Feeling of What Happens” Definition of Consciousness Extend to Dreaming? If So, How Do You Conceptualize Internally Generated FWHs? . . . . .	111
	Antonio Damasio
11	What Is Dreaming for, If Anything? . . . . .	113
	Daniel C. Dennett
12	Your Interest in Sleep and Memory Posits a Semantic Learning Function to NREM Sleep. What Are Your Views of Associative Memory Enhancement by REM? . . . . .	119
	Susanne Diekelmann and Jan Born
13	Your Imaging Group Has Coined the Term ‘Dream Imaging.’ Please Summarize the Concept in Relation to Dream Theory . . . . .	123
	Martin Dresler, Victor Spoormaker, Renate Wehrle, and Michael Czisch
14	Do You Think That Scientific Psychology Has a Place for the Study of Dreaming? In Other Words, Do You Accept Introspection as Scientifically Useful? . . . . .	131
	Michael W. Eysenck
15	What Does Your Theory of Hallucinoses Make of Dream Experience? Do Both Reveal the Operation of Internal Image Generator Mechanisms in the Brain? . . . . .	133
	Dominic H. Ffytche
16	Please Comment on the Predictive Tenet of the Protoconsciousness Hypothesis. Is This Idea Consistent with the Helmholtzian Model of Free Energy That You Are Developing? . . . . .	137
	Karl Friston
17	How Does the Protoconsciousness Concept of Dreaming Fit with Your Model of the Animal Mind? Do Dogs, Parrots, and Monkeys “Think” Without Words? . . . . .	143
	Ludwig Huber
18	How Does the New Protoconsciousness Hypothesis Fit with Your Own Concept of the Cognitive Unconscious? . . . . .	149
	John F. Kihlstrom
19	Does Morrisson’s PGO Wave/Startle Hypothesis Help Us Explain Such Robust Dream Features as Surprise and Scene Shift? . . . . .	153
	Don Kuiken

20	Emotion Appears To Be Generated in REM Sleep in the Absence of Sensory Input. How Does This Finding Fit with Your Stimulus-Response Model of Emotion? . . . . .	157
	Joseph LeDoux
21	Do You Still Maintain That the Only Significant Difference Between Waking and REM Sleep-Dreaming Is Due to the Subtraction of Sensory Input in REM? What Is Your View of the Aminergic Demodulation Hypothesis That Derives from AIM? . . . . .	159
	Rodolfo R. Llinás
22	What Is the Specific Significance of Dream Research for Philosophy of Mind? . . . . .	161
	Thomas Metzinger
23	How Does the Dream Consciousness/Protoconsciousness Concept Resonate with Linguistic Ideas and the Hypothesis of a Universal Grammar? . . . . .	167
	Andrea Moro
24	You Have Interpreted the PGO Waves of REM Sleep as Activation of the Startle Network of the Brain. What Is Your Theory of the Function of Off-Line Startle and What Impact, If Any, Does This Activation Have Upon Dreaming? . . . . .	171
	Adrian R. Morrison
25	What Is the Current Status of Your “Covert REM Process” Theory, Especially in the Light of the New Protoconsciousness Hypothesis? . . .	175
	Tore Nielsen
26	How Does the Theory and Data Discussed in the Lectures Fit with Your Work on Dreams? . . . . .	181
	Valdas Noreika
27	How Does Protoconsciousness Theory Mesh with Your Model of Dream Emotion? . . . . .	185
	Edward F. Pace-Schott
28	Do You Suppose That, in Addition to the Sensorimotor Isolation of REM, There Is Impairment of Intrinsic Attentional Processes That We Experience as an Inability to Observe and Think in Our Dreams? . . . . .	187
	Michael Posner
29	Does Your “Single-Minded” Characterization of Dreaming Now Find Confirmation and Explanation in the Lucid Dreaming Data? . . . . .	189
	Allan Rechtschaffen

30	The Idea, Championed by Your Group, That Dreaming Functions as Threat Avoidance Would Seem to Be Quite Compatible with Protoconsciousness Theory. But Is It Really Dreaming (as Against REM) That Performs That Function? In Other Words, Are You a Dualist or a Neutral Monist? . . . . .	191
	Antti Revonsuo
31	What Are the Clinical Implications of Protoconsciousness Theory for the Conceptualization of Those Psychiatric Disorders Commonly Referred to as Mental Illnesses? . . . . .	195
	Silvio Scarone and Armando D'Agostino
32	You Emphasize the Continuity Between Waking and Dreaming. But What About Continuity in the Other Direction, i.e. Between Dreaming and Waking? And What About Discontinuity? Do You Deny Its Existence? . . . . .	197
	Michael Schredl
33	How Does the Finding of a Correlation Between the Three Conscious States (REM Dream, Lucid Dream, and Waking) and 40 Hz Power Fit with Your Suggestion That 40 Hz Is a Substrate of Consciousness? . . . . .	201
	Wolf Singer
34	Do You Agree That Freud's Dream Theory Was Erroneous with Respect to (1) The Genesis of Dreaming (Release of Repressed Infantile Wishes) and (2) The Bizarreness of Dreams (Disguise and Censorship of Unacceptable Wishes)? . . . . .	205
	Mark Solms
35	The Term "Hypnosis" Suggests a Sleep-Like State and Recent Evidence Regarding Lucid Dreaming Bears on the Notion of a "Hidden Observer." What Is Your View of the Analogy of Dreaming and Hypnosis? . . . . .	211
	David Spiegel
36	How Does Your PHI Formula Deal with the Evidence that Consciousness Is State Dependent? More Specifically, if PHI Were Higher in REM Sleep Than in Waking, Would You Conclude That Dreaming Was More Conscious Even Than Waking? . . . . .	215
	Giulio Tononi
37	From Your Point of View as a Clinical and Health Psychologist, What Is Your Reaction to the Hypothesis of a Virtual Reality Program for the Brain? . . . . .	219
	Claus Vögele

38	Please Summarize Your Findings on the Dream Representation of Disability in Your Studies of Handicapped People. What Bearing Do These Data Have on Protoconsciousness Theory? . . . . .	221
	Ursula Voss
39	You Have Made Blind Sight a Valid Phenomenon. What Is Your Position About Dream Vision? Is That Not Evidence for Internal Visual Image Generation by the Brain? Do You Suppose That Such Image Production Could Occur in Blind Subjects? . . . . .	223
	Lawrence Weiskrantz
40	How Can the Protoconsciousness Hypothesis Contribute to Philosophical Theories of Consciousness and the Self? . . . . .	225
	Jennifer M. Windt
41	How Does the Formal Approach to Mind Taken by Protoconsciousness Science Compare with the Formal Approach to Works of Art That You Espouse? . . . . .	231
	Hellmut Wohl
 Part III Response to Commentaries on the William James Lectures on Dream Consciousness
42	Lecture I: Psychology . . . . .	237
	J. Allan Hobson
43	Lecture II: Physiology . . . . .	245
	J. Allan Hobson
44	Lecture III: Philosophy . . . . .	251
	J. Allan Hobson
