

Table of Contents

Table of Abbreviations	11
Introduction	13
1. Historical Background and Political Contextualization	15
1.1. Hierarchy – Oppression, Alignment, Resistance	15
1.1.1. Historical Antecedents.....	15
1.1.2. Sino-Soviet Relations: Bolshevik Revolution, Honeymoon, Break Up	17
1.2. Equality – Normalcy.....	19
1.2.1. Normalization of Ties: From Brezhnev to Yeltsin	19
1.2.2. “Strategic Partnership“ and Common Opposition to “US Unilateralism”	22
1.2.3. The Era Putin (I): Intensification of Economic Relations.....	25
1.2.4. The Era Putin (II) – Medvedev: Georgian War, SCO-Leadership and Financial Crisis.....	28
2. Energy Policy and Major Energy Projects from 1991 to 2011.....	33
2.1. Setting the Stage: The Dissolution of the Soviet Union and the End of Chinese Energy Autonomy	34
2.2. The 1990s: Russia’s frustrated Eastern Dreams.....	36
2.2.1. Oil and Gas: Buyer’s Market.....	36
2.2.2. Nuclear and Hydro Power: Tentative Beginnings	39
2.3. The 2000s: China’s Patience tested	40
2.3.1. Oil and Gas: The Age of Oil.....	40
2.3.2. Nuclear and Hydro Power: Enter China, (Re-)Enter Russia.....	49
2.4. The Financial Crisis and Current Developments: Sudden Solutions	52
2.4.1. Oil and Gas: The Breakthrough.....	52
2.4.2. Nuclear and Hydro Power: Awakening	54
3. State of Research: Sino-Russian Relations Research post-1991	57
3.1. Sino-Russian Relations: Politics over Economy.....	59
3.2. Economic Interaction: Energy above all and ESPO over CA.....	62
3.3. Regional Theatres: East Asia (incl RFE and Taiwan) over Central Asia.....	65

4. Research Design – Theoretical Framework, Methodology and Hypotheses	69
4.1. Roots of Realist Thought	71
4.1.1. Classical Realism: Hans J. Morgenthau and Power.....	71
4.1.2. Neorealism: Kenneth M. Waltz and the Structure of the International System	73
4.2. Neoclassical Realism: Systemic Pressures and Intervening Variables	75
4.3. Perception Theory: Perceiving Elites and Forms of Perception.....	78
4.4. Theoretical Model and Methodology for this study.....	82
4.4.1. Theoretical Model – Neoclassical Realism and Perception Theory	82
4.4.2. Methodology – Analysis of the Academic Discourse.....	86
5. Empirical Research – Shifting Sands: Bulwark against the US or “Coming Replacement”	93
5.1. All Quiet on the Western Front: 1997-2001	96
5.2. US Intrusion and Sino-Russian Defense: 2001-2008.....	98
5.3. ”Natural Relations” with CA and Chinese Confidence: The Financial Crisis and Beyond.....	103
5.3.1. Sino-Russian (Energy) Relations: The Set-up (I)	103
5.3.2. The PRC and the RF in CA: The Set-up (II)	109
5.3.3. Encounters in the Steppe (I): Problems and Fears.....	115
5.3.4. Encounters in the Steppe (II): Remedies and Expectations	120
Conclusion	127
Bibliography.....	133
Western Language Sources.....	133
Chinese Language Sources	140

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-658-03271-5>

China-Russia Relations in Central Asia
Energy Policy, Beijing's New Assertiveness and 21st
Century Geopolitics

Eder, Th.S.

2014, XII, 139 p., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-658-03271-5