1.3	Empirical Research on European Contract Law	43
1.3.1	Requests for Empirical Research	44
1.3.2	Previous Empirical Research	48
1.3.2.1	Academic Research	48
1.3.2.2	Research Conducted by the Commission of the European Union	53
1.4	The European Commission's Impact Assessment Accompanying the Proposal for a Regulation on a Common European Sales Law	68
1.4.1	Opportunity Costs for Intra-EU Trade	70
1.4.2	Transaction Costs at Company Level and Cumulative Transaction Costs	73
1.4.3	Economic Impact of the Policy Option "Regulation setting up an Optional Common European Sales Law"	77
1.4.4	Assessment of the IA	79
1.5	The Lack of Formal Statistical Analysis on European Contract Law	80
2.	The Theory of Institutional Competition in European Contract Law	85
2.1	Definition of Institutional Competition	86
2.2	The Law Market and the Legal Framework for Institutional Competition	89
2.3	Limitations to the Theory of Institutional Competition	92
2.4	The Impact of Institutional Competition on Member States and the EU	98
2.5	The Effect of Harmonization on Institutional Competition	101

2.6 Relevant Insights from the Theory of Institutional Competition for an Optional European Contract Law	105
 3. An Optional European Contract Code in the Institutional Competition between European Contract Laws	 107
3.1 The Economics of a European Contract Law	108
3.2 The European Market for Contract Laws	111
3.2.1 Creeping Codification	114
3.2.2 The Theory of Transaction Costs for the Choice of Law	116
3.2.2.1 Information Costs	118
3.2.2.2 Suboptimal Choice of Law Costs	119
3.2.3 The Relationship between Information Costs and Suboptimal Choice of Law Costs	121
3.3 The Theory of Legal Order	123
3.3.1 Centralized Order	124
3.3.2 Decentralized Order	125
3.3.3 Knowledge and Order	126
3.3.4 The Relationship between Centralized and Decentralized Order	128
3.4 Competition for Innovation	129
3.4.1 The Supply Side	130
3.4.2 The Demand Side	133
3.4.3 The Relationship between the Supply Side and the Demand Side	134
3.5 The European Contract Law	136
3.5.1 Centralized Order – A Single Contract Law	137
3.5.2 Decentralized Order – The European Market for Contract Laws	138

3.5.3	Competition for Innovation in the European Market for Contract Laws	138
3.6	The Cycle of European Contract Law Model	142
3.7	The Restraining Effect of Consumer Protection Rules on Institutional Competition	146
3.8	Implications Derived from the Cycle of European Contract Law Model for the Implementation of an Optional European Contract Law	150

Part Two: Empirical Research

4.	Methodology	159
4.1	Research Design	160
4.2	Sampling of Respondents	164
4.3	Design of Questionnaire	167
4.4	Procedure	169
4.5	Representativeness of the Sample	170
5.	Association Analysis for the Choice of Proper Contract Law and Dispute Resolution Forum in Cross-Border Contracts	173
5.1	Introduction to the Analysis of Associations between Variables	174
5.2	General Overview of Contract Laws and Dispute Resolution Forums	177
5.2.1	Differentiation of the Concept Dispute Resolution Forum .	178
5.2.2	The Variable Pairs Contract Law and Dispute Resolution Forum	181

5.2.3	Results of the Association Analysis	182
5.3	Choice of Contract Law and Dispute Resolution Forum	184
5.3.1	The Variable Pairs Choice of Contract Law and Choice of Dispute Resolution Forum	185
5.3.2	Results of the Correlation Analysis	186
5.4	Interpretation – Do Contracting Parties Differentiate between the Dispute Resolution Forum and the Applicable Contract Law when Choosing them for a Cross-Border Transaction?	189
6.	Regression Models for Addressing Questions in European Contract Law	191
6.1	Introduction to Binary Logistic Regression Analysis	191
6.1.1	The Binary Logistic Regression Model	192
6.1.2	Dichotomisation of the Dependent Variables	194
6.1.3	Treating Ordinal Explanatory Variables as Continuous	195
6.1.4	Multicollinearity Assumption and the Test for Multicollinearity	196
6.1.5	Goodness of Fit	197
6.2	Preference for a European Contract Law Binary Logistic Regression Model	199
6.2.1	Response and Explanatory Variables	199
6.2.2	Nested Model Structure	205
6.2.2.1	Full Model	206
6.2.2.2	Reduced Model	207
6.2.3	Fitted Probabilities of Preference for a European Contract Law	208
6.2.4	Interpretation – What are the Characteristics of the Supporters of a European Contract Law?	211

6.3	Preference for a European Civil Justice System
	Binary Logistic Regression Model	213
6.3.1	Response and Explanatory Variables	213
6.3.2	Nested Model Structure	219
	6.3.2.1 Full Model	221
	6.3.2.2 Reduced Model	221
6.3.3	Fitted Probabilities of Preferring a European Civil Justice System	223
6.3.4	Interpretation – What are the Characteristics of the Supporters of a European Civil Justice System?	224
6.4	The Use of Optional Contract Codes
	Binary Logistic Regression Model	227
6.4.1	Response and Explanatory Variables	227
6.4.2	Nested Model Structure	232
	6.4.2.1 Reduced Model.....	233
	6.4.2.2 Full Model	234
6.4.3	Fitted Probabilities of Using Optional Contract Codes	237
6.4.4	The Effect of the Variable ‘Home Jurisdiction’	238
6.4.5	Interpretation – What are the Characteristics of the Users of Optional Contract Codes?	241
7.	The Transaction Costs Latent Variable Model	245
7.1	The Indicator Variables	247
7.2	The Transaction Costs Confirmatory Factor Model	250
7.3	The Use of Optional Contract Codes Factor Score
	Binary Logistic Regression Model	255

7.4 Interpretation – Do the Concepts of Information Costs and Suboptimal Choice of Law Costs Adequately Describe the Transaction Costs Involved in Cross-Border Transactions?	258
---	-----

Part Three: Conclusions

8. Assessment of the Desirability of an Optional European Contract Law	263
8.1 Summary of the Main Theoretical Findings	264
8.2 Summary of the Main Empirical Findings	265
8.2.1 The Interdependence between the Dispute Resolution Forum and the Applicable Contract Law	267
8.2.2 Portrayal of the Supporters of a European Contract Law ...	268
8.2.3 Portrayal of the Supporters of a European Civil Justice System	269
8.2.4 Portrayal of the Users of Optional Contract Laws	270
8.2.5 Concluding Remarks on the Research Design Employed ...	273
8.3 Recommendations for Future Policy in the Field of European Contract Law	274
