

Contents

1	Aid Effectiveness and Donor Preferences	1
1.1	Basic Definitions	1
1.2	Reciprocal and Normative Donors: The British DFID and the German BMZ	4
1.3	The TACIS Program: Agencies, Committees, and Bureaucratic Cycles	11
1.4	The Model: Donor Types and Aid Preferences	19
1.5	Discussion	21
	Appendix	22
2	Aid Effectiveness and the Soft Budget Constraint	25
2.1	Aid Effectiveness and the Recipient Economy	25
2.2	Developmental Entrepreneurs and Distributive Planners	28
2.3	Centralization and EU Development Aid: The New Soft Budget Constraint	32
2.4	The Model: The New Soft Budget Constraint	35
2.5	Conclusions	37
3	The TACIS Program in Russia, Ukraine, and Central Asia, 1992–2007	39
3.1	Aid, Growth, and Institutions: Literature Overview	39
3.2	Aid Effectiveness and Imperfect Monitoring	49
3.3	The Model: Aid Effectiveness as Prisoner’s Dilemma	51
3.4	Aid Effectiveness and the TACIS Program: Evidence from the Field	55
3.5	Synthesis	66
4	Europe, Russia, and Global Development	69
4.1	Transformations of Development Aid: Russia as a Donor	69
4.2	The European Neighborhood and Partnership Instrument	73

4.3	The Development Cooperation Instrument	78
4.4	Europe, Russia, and Regional Economic Integration in Eurasia	80
Conclusions: Complementarity and Coordination in Aid Governance		83
Glossary		87
References		89
Index		101

Aid in Transition

EU Development Cooperation with Russia and Eurasia

Grigoriadis, T.N.

2015, XVI, 103 p. 30 illus., 27 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-4614-6581-2