

Contents

Part I Knowledge & Justification

1	Essay #1: What Is Knowing?	3
2	Essay #2: Scales of Epistemic Appraisal	21
3	Essay #3: On Epistemic Preferability	31
4	Essay #4: On Being Unjustified	39
5	Essay #5: “I Should Have Known It!” Gilbert Ryle and Poker Knowledge	65

Part II Philosophy of Religion

6	Essay #6: An Agnostic Argument	73
7	“Lucey’s Agnosticism: The Believer’s Reply” by Tomis Kapitan	79
8	Essay #7: Theism, Necessity and Invalidity	83
9	Essay #8: Logical Form and the Ontological Argument	89

Part III Philosophical Logic

10	Essay #9: Kant’s Analytic/Synthetic Distinction	105
11	Essay #10: A New Counter-Example to Modus Ponens	113
12	Comments on Lucey’s “An Invalid Instance of Modus Ponens ” by Ted Sider	121
13	Essay #11: The Ancestral Relation Without Classes	125
14	Essay #12: Laws of Excluded Middle and a Temporal Dilemma . . .	131
15	Essay #13: The Logic of ‘Unless’	139

16	Essay #14: Frankfurt on Why We Care About Truth: The Worlds of the Two Harrys	143
 Part IV Causality and the Mind
17	Essay #15: An Analysis of Causal Contribution (with co-authored Carol A. Lucey)	151
18	Essay #16: The Testability of the Identity Theory	163
19	Essay #17: On Being Purely Psychological	169
20	“Comments on Lucey’s Paper” by Roderick M. Chisholm (April 16, 1984)	177
21	Essay #18: On Ontological Parasites: Are Persons Entia Per Se? . . .	181
22	Essay #19: Is There a Set of All Truths?	191
23	Essay #20: The Generalization Argument Defended	195
24	Essay #21: Taxonomies & Teaching	211
25	Essay #22: Rudolf Carnap on False Propositions & Specificity	219
	Index	237

Pesky Essays on the Logic of Philosophy

Lucey, K.G.

2015, IX, 240 p. 13 illus.,

ISBN: 978-3-319-08063-5