

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	The Family Renewed	2
1.2	Did the Baby Boomers Really Transform the Family?	5
1.3	A Comparative Approach	9
1.4	A Combination of Methods	11
 Part I Baby Boomers in the Family
2	The Baby Boom Phenomenon	17
2.1	The Unexplained Recovery in the Birth Rate	17
2.1.1	What Was the Baby Boom?	17
2.1.2	Why Did the Baby Boom Happen?	21
2.2	An Enigma—The Parents of the Baby Boomers	27
2.2.1	The Baby Boomers' Grandmothers	27
2.2.2	The Baby Boomers' Mothers	34
2.2.3	Youth Movements: An Early Source of Emancipation for the Baby Boomers' Mothers	36
2.3	Conclusion	40
3	The Baby Boomers' Childhood	41
3.1	Living Conditions During the Baby Boomers' Childhood and Adolescence	42
3.1.1	Housing Problems	42
3.1.2	Homes Gradually Become More Comfortable	44
3.1.3	Overcrowded Dwellings	46
3.1.4	The Arrival of Household Appliances	49
3.2	An Authoritarian Upbringing	50
3.2.1	Children's Upbringing Within the Family Unit	51
3.2.2	Religious Upbringing	55
3.3	Mass Education	59
3.3.1	Rising Numbers	59
3.3.2	Girls' Schools and Boys' Schools	60
3.4	Conclusion	63
		xi

Part II Baby Boomers Against the Family

4 The Family in Perpetual Motion	67
4.1 A New Mystery: The “Demographic Earthquake” 1965–1985	68
4.1.1 Precursors	68
4.1.2 Researchers’ Explanations	75
4.2 The Winds of Freedom	78
4.2.1 Stirrings of Revolution (1950–1960)	78
4.2.2 The Pendulum Swings in France: The Baby Boomers and May 1968	83
4.3 Conclusion	86
5 Rebellious Teenagers	87
5.1 Residential Separation	87
5.1.1 Keeping the Family at Arm’s Length	87
5.1.2 Residential Separation, Study and Work	92
5.1.3 Residential Separation and an Employee’s Job Market	94
5.2 Girls Against Motherhood	97
5.2.1 Liberation for and Through Women?	97
5.2.2 Female Trajectories: Different Timescales	100
5.2.3 Work, a Feminine Noun	102
5.2.4 Cohabitation and Conjugal Relations	106
5.3 Conclusion	107

Part III Baby Boomers in Alternative Families

6 Life outside the Family: Working Women	111
6.1 Changes in Women’s Work	112
6.2 Women Who Devote Themselves to Hearth and Home	116
6.2.1 A Life Focused on Home and Family	117
6.2.2 Stay-at-Home Mothers and Voluntary Work	118
6.3 Women Who Fit Their Work around Their Family	120
6.3.1 A Conscious Compromise	120
6.3.2 A Bitter Compromise	123
6.4 Women Who Focus on Their Careers	126
6.4.1 Women Living on Their Own	126
6.4.2 Women with Children	127
6.5 Women Who Return to Full Time Work After a Divorce	132
6.5.1 Fault Divorce	133
6.5.2 Bankruptcy Divorce	134
6.6 A New Conflict: Mother versus Daughter	135
6.7 Conclusion	138

7 The Family Wins Through	141
7.1 From a Single Lifecycle to Multiple Life Trajectories	142
7.1.1 Leaving Home to Live Alone	143
7.1.2 Living Together Before Marrying	145
7.1.3 Staying Married	147
7.1.4 Separating	152
7.2 New Family Configurations	154
7.2.1 Solo Parenting	154
7.2.2 Recomposed Families	157
7.2.3 Different Logics within Recomposed Families	158
7.2.4 Father-Child Relationships after Divorce or Separation	158
7.2.5 Towards New Relations between Former Spouses?	160
7.2.6 Living Alone or in a Couple	161
7.3 The Baby Boomers and Their Children	165
7.4 Conclusion	167

Part IV Baby Boomers with the Family

8 Caught Between Parents and Children	171
8.1 Children First	172
8.1.1 A New Relationship with Their Children	172
8.1.2 ...Through Their Status as Grandparents	176
8.1.3 Parents Powerless to Influence Their Children's Future	178
8.1.4 "Boomerang Kids"	182
8.2 Where Do the Parents Stand?	186
8.2.1 The Desire for Autonomy	187
8.2.2 ...But with Filial Strings Attached	188
8.3 Ageing Parents: A Typology of Respondents' Responses	190
8.3.1 Impassible Children	190
8.3.2 Active Helpers	191
8.3.3 Passive Helpers	193
8.4 Conclusion	195
9 Baby Boomers and Their Family Entourage	199
9.1 Local Family Entourage	201
9.1.1 The Local Family Entourage: Between Reproduction and Creation	202
9.1.2 The Local Family Entourage: Among Parents, Siblings and Children	205
9.1.3 The Local Family Entourage, or the Art of Being Grandparents	207
9.2 Dispersed Family Entourage	209
9.2.1 The Dispersed Family: A Well-Tolerated Lifestyle	210
9.2.2 The Dispersed Family Entourage, the Result of Constraints	214

9.3	Moderate Families.....	217
9.4	Isolated Families	219
9.4.1	Isolated Loners	219
9.4.2	Isolated Sociable Individuals	222
9.4.3	Isolated Conflicted Individuals	224
9.5	Conclusion.....	225
10	Conclusion	229
10.1	A Shared Situation or a Generational One?	229
10.2	Heterogeneous Histories and Situations	234
10.3	Do the Baby Boomers Form a Specific Generation?	237
	Appendix	241
	References	249
	Index	265

Renewing the Family: A History of the Baby Boomers

Bonvalet, C.; Clément, C.; Ogg, J.

2015, XIV, 268 p. 11 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-08544-9