

Contents

The Phenomenological Critique of Formalism: Responsibility and the Life-World	1
Lubica Učník, Anita Williams, and Ivan Chvatík
Part I Patočka's "Review of the Crisis"
Edmund Husserl's Die Krisis der europäischen Wissenschaften und die transcendentale Phänomenologie	17
Jan Patočka
Part II Patočka's Phenomenological Philosophy
Jan Patočka: From the Concept of Evidence to the Natural World and Beyond	31
Lubica Učník
Patočka on Galileo	43
Lubica Učník and Ivan Chvatík
Nostalgia and Phenomenon: Husserl and Patočka on the End of the Ancient Cosmos	57
Burt C. Hopkins
Time in 'Negative Platonism'	79
Pavel Kouba
'Quicquid Cogitat': On the Uses and Disadvantages of Subjectivity	89
Ludger Hagedorn

Part III Husserl's Phenomenology

Everydayness, Historicity and the World of Science: Husserl's Life-World Reconsidered	107
Dermot Moran

Husserl's Hermeneutical Phenomenology of the Life-World as Culture Reconsidered	133
Nicolas de Warren

Mathesis Universalis and the Life-World: Finitude and Responsibility	155
Rosemary R.P. Lerner

Husserl and Heidegger on the Social Dimensions of the Life-World	175
Tom Nenon

Part IV The Continued Relevance of the Phenomenological Critique

Formalisation and Responsibility	187
James Mensch

Perceiving Sensible Things: Husserl and the Act of Perception	197
Anita Williams

Are We Still Afraid of Science?	211
Ivan Chvatík

Index	221
------------------------	------------

The Phenomenological Critique of Mathematisation and the Question of Responsibility

Formalisation and the Life-World

Učník, L.; Chvatík, I.; Williams, A. (Eds.)

2015, X, 223 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-09827-2