
Contents

1	Characteristics of the Concept of Customer Value Management . . .	1
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	Characteristics of Customer Value Management	1
1.2.1	Perception of Customer Relationships as Value Exchange	2
1.2.2	Customer Orientation	3
1.2.3	Measurement of Customer Lifetime Value and Customer Knowledge Management	4
1.2.4	Portfolio Approach Towards Customer Relationships	6
1.2.5	Focalisation on Customer-Related Processes	7
1.2.6	Association of Customer Relationship-Oriented Actions with the Company's Value	8
1.2.7	Perception of the Role of Customers in the Company's Business Model	9
1.3	Possibility to Employ Customer Value Management on Various Markets	10
1.4	Limitations of the Concept of Customer Value Management	14
1.5	Selected Models and Concepts of Relationship Marketing	15
1.5.1	Conceptual Model of Customer Equity Management	15
1.5.2	Conceptual Model of Personalised Marketing	16
1.5.3	Conceptual Model of Delivering Value to Customer	18
1.5.4	Concept of Market Driving and Market Driven	19
	References	23
2	Influence of the Internet on Value to Customer	25
2.1	Introduction	25
2.2	Value to Customer in the Context of Exchange	25
2.2.1	Concept of Value to Customer	25
2.2.2	Categorisation of Constituent Values to Customer	28
2.2.3	Pricing Strategies on the Internet	31
2.2.4	Transaction Costs of a Customer on the Internet	37
2.2.5	Customer-Generated Values	39
2.2.6	Types of Internet-Based Value Exchange Between the Company and the Customer	41

2.3	Product Virtualisation	42
2.3.1	Product Digitalisation	43
2.3.2	Product Enrichment in Information	43
2.4	Customer Value Co-creation	45
2.4.1	Mass Customisation	46
2.4.2	Value Co-creation Oriented at Other Customers	49
2.5	Online Customer Experience	59
2.5.1	Internet as a Tool for Creating Customer Experience	61
2.5.2	Functions of Experience in Value Proposition	61
2.6	Network Effects	63
2.6.1	The Nature of Network Effects	63
2.6.2	Multi-sided Platforms	65
2.6.3	Competing by Means of Network Effect	69
2.7	Strategies of Internet-Based Value Propositions	72
2.7.1	Efficiency Strategy	72
2.7.2	Free Benefit Strategy	73
2.7.3	Strategy of Complete Customer Solutions	73
2.7.4	Strategy of Unique Benefits	74
2.7.5	Strategy of Value Co-creation	75
	References	75
3	Conceptual Model of Internet-Based Customer Value
	Management	81
3.1	Introduction	81
3.2	Defining Value to Customer	85
3.2.1	Selection of Value Proposition	85
3.2.2	Selection of the Target Group	87
3.3	Creating Value for Customer	90
3.3.1	Organisation of the Internet-Based Customer Value Management Process	91
3.3.2	Resources and Capabilities of Online Companies	93
3.4	Communicating Value to Customer	97
3.4.1	Customer Attraction	97
3.4.2	Trust Building	107
3.4.3	Customer Trust Acquisition on the Internet	110
3.5	Delivering Value to Customer	113
3.5.1	Customer Portfolio Segmentation and Value Exchange	113
3.5.2	Increasing Customer Involvement	120
3.5.3	Customer Loyalty Building	123
3.6	Generating Value for the Company	129
3.6.1	Internet and Competitive Advantage	130
	References	135

4	Financial Aspects of Customer Value Management	141
4.1	Introduction	141
4.2	Calculation of Customer Lifetime Value	141
4.2.1	Calculation of Customer-Generated Values	143
4.2.2	Calculation of Customer Costs	143
4.2.3	Customer Relationship-Associated Risk	145
4.2.4	Criticism of Customer Lifetime Value	146
4.3	Comparison Between Customer Value Management and Securities Portfolio Management	148
	References	151

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-09854-8>

Internet-Based Customer Value Management

Developing Customer Relationships Online

Doligalski, T.

2015, IX, 152 p. 9 illus., 2 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-09854-8