1	Introduction	1
1.1	Importance and Motivation	1
1.2	Research Questions and Scope	3
1.3	Outline of the Thesis	5
2	Offline, Online and Multichannel Commerce	7
2.1	Introduction	7
2.2	Differences Between Online and Offline Commerce	7
2.2.1	Information Transparency	8
2.2.2	Interactions	12
2.2.3	Cost Structures	16
2.3	Choices Between Online and Offline Commerce	17
2.3.1	Channel Choice	17
2.3.2	Multichannel Shoppers	19
2.3.3	Channel Switching	21
2.4	Multichannel Integration	22
2.5	Summary	27
3	Perception and Valuation of Multichannel Integration Services	29
3.1	Introduction	29
3.2	Theoretical Foundations	30
3.2.1	Perception of Multichannel Integration Services	30
3.2.2	Valuation of Multichannel Integration Services	34
3.3	Empirical Study	36
3.3.1	Measurement Instrument Development	36
3.3.2	Data Collection	44
3.3.3	Results	47
3.3.4	Discussion	58
3.4	Summary	60

4 Purchase Specific and Individual Differences	63
4.1 Introduction	63
4.2 Theoretical Background	64
4.2.1 Regulatory Focus Theory	65
4.2.2 Contingency Factors on the Utility of MC Integration Services	66
4.3 Empirical Study	69
4.3.1 Measurement Instrument Development	70
4.3.2 Data Collection	78
4.3.3 Conjoint Estimation and Goodness of Fit	79
4.3.4 Results	83
4.3.5 Discussion	96
4.3.6 Post Hoc Analysis: Impact of MC Services on Channel Choice	99
4.3.7 Post Hoc Analysis: Estimating the Value of MC Services	101
4.4 Summary	103
5 Reflection	105
5.1 Recapitulation	105
5.2 Theoretical Contribution	107
5.3 Practical Contribution	110
5.4 Conclusion and Future Research	112
Appendix A: Methodology of the Structured Literature Review	115
Appendix B: German Measurement Instrument (Chapter 3)	117
