

Contents

Part I From Physics to Biology

1	From Physics to Semiotics	3
	Stuart Kauffman
2	Is Life Essentially Semiosis?	21
	Peter P. Kirschenmann
3	Life in the Open Air	27
	Bronislaw Szerszynski
4	Reflections on Life: Lessons from Evolutionary Biology, with Insights from Sergius Bulgakov	43
	Gayle E. Woloschak
5	Life in Terms of Nano-biotechnologies	57
	Thierry Magnin and Fabien Revol

Part II Concepts of Life in Philosophy, Theology and Ethics

6	Life: An Ill-Defined Relationship	69
	Antje Jackelén
7	Emergence, Realism and the Good Life	87
	Mikael Leidenhag
8	Dust of the Ground and Breath of Life (Gen 2:7): The Notion of ‘life’ in Ancient Israel and Emergence Theory	101
	Klaus Nürnberger
9	The Openness of Life: Personhood and Faith: An Infinitizer Approach	117
	W. Richard Bowen
10	Respect for Life in the Age of Science	129
	Alfred Kracher

Part III The Hermeneutics of Life

11 Life and Consciousness: Is There a Biological Foundation for Consciousness?	149
Maria-Magdalena Weker
12 “To Research Living Beings, One Has to Participate in Life”: Viktor von Weizsäcker’s Legacy	157
Andreas Losch
13 Signs, Science, and Religion: A Biosemiotic Mediation	169
Gerald Ostdiek
14 Persons Knowing Life: Theological Possibilities in Michael Polanyi’s Philosophy	179
Vincent M. Smiles
15 Life Beyond Critical Realism: Developing van Huyssteen’s Transversal Approach to the Science/Theology Dialogue	191
Pat Bennett
Index	203

Issues in Science and Theology: What is Life?

Evers, D.; Fuller, M.; Jackelén, A.; Sæther, K.-W. (Eds.)

2015, XI, 207 p. 1 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-17406-8