1	Introduction: For an Epistemology of the Human Being. . . . .	1
1.1	About this Book. . . . .	1
1.2	About the Subdivision. . . . .	2
1.3	About the Theoretical Framework. . . . .	5
1.3.1	Eco-Cognitive Epistemology . . . . .	5
1.3.2	Abductive Reasoning . . . . .	6
	References. . . . .	10

Part I Science and Strategic Cognition

2	On Biological and Verbal Camouflage: The Strategic Use of Models in Non-Scientific Thinking. . . . .	13
2.1	Introduction. . . . .	13
2.2	Understanding Camouflage as Inferential Warfare. . . . .	14
2.2.1	Situating Camouflage in the Environment . . . . .	14
2.2.2	Truth and Survival in Agency Detection and Recognition: The Importance of Animal Abduction . . . . .	16
2.2.3	Pragmatic-Semiotic Models of Camouflage . . . . .	20
2.3	Argumentation, Truth and Survival: Human Beings and Linguistic Camouflage . . . . .	23
2.4	Biological and Argumentative Camouflage are Debunked by Similar Methods . . . . .	28
2.4.1	Countermeasures for Animal Camouflage . . . . .	30
2.4.2	Countermeasures for Verbal Camouflage. . . . .	31
2.5	Conclusion . . . . .	34
	References. . . . .	35

3	Proto-Models, Mental Models and Scientific Models . . . . .	39
3.1	Introduction . . . . .	39
3.2	Models Without Modelers? . . . . .	40
3.2.1	Embodied Models of Agency Recognition: An Eco-Cognitive Necessity . . . . .	42
3.2.2	Emerging Animal Models as Abductive Representations . . . . .	43
3.2.3	Emerging Models: Useful Instruments or Fictions? . . . .	45
3.2.4	Camouflage as the Strategic Use of Models in Nature. . . . .	48
3.3	The Naturalness of Scientific Models . . . . .	49
3.3.1	All Human Knowledge Is a (Sometimes) Virtuous Distortion (and a Model Too) . . . . .	49
3.3.2	Both Emerging Models and Scientific Models Prepare for Mathematical Abstraction . . . . .	55
3.3.3	From Emerging Models to Scientific Models . . . . .	58
3.4	Conclusion . . . . .	62
	References. . . . .	63
4	Models in Action: An Eco-Cognitive Outlook on Experimental Science . . . . .	67
4.1	Introduction . . . . .	67
4.2	Defining the Experiment . . . . .	68
4.2.1	Setting the Boundaries of the Laboratory. . . . .	69
4.3	How Many Kinds of Experiment Are There? . . . . .	72
4.3.1	The Generative Experiment . . . . .	73
4.3.2	The Demonstrative Experiment . . . . .	74
4.4	Consequences of the Distinction. . . . .	78
4.4.1	Differentiating Repetition and Replication of Experiments. . . . .	78
4.4.2	The Meaning of “Failure” . . . . .	81
4.5	Conclusion . . . . .	83
	References. . . . .	85
 Part II Cognitive Niches and Social Cognition: Using Knowledge as a Tool
5	Introducing Cognitive Niches. . . . .	89
5.1	Cognition Versus Unpredictability . . . . .	89
5.2	Cognitive Niche Construction: Managing Resources to Contrast Unpredictability and Lessen Complexity . . . . .	91
	References. . . . .	95

6	Curating the Richness of Cognitive Niches	97
6.1	Introduction	97
6.2	Chance Curation and Bullshit	99
6.2.1	Why Bullshit Equals a Faked Chance	100
6.2.2	Why a Bullshit Can Be a Valuable Opportunity	103
6.3	Chance Curation as a Consequence of the Richness of a Cognitive Niche	106
6.4	Conclusion	109
	References	109
7	Gossip as Multi-level Abduction: The Inferential Ground of Linguistic Niche Construction	111
7.1	Introduction	111
7.2	Gossip and Group Cognition: An Epistemological Shift	112
7.2.1	Definitional Issues	115
7.2.2	Group Mind or Epistemic Synergy?	118
7.2.3	Groups Are the Subject of Gossip	120
7.2.4	Groups are the Condition and the Output of Gossip	123
7.3	The Inferential Structure of Gossip-Based Knowledge	125
7.3.1	Gossip as Inquiry	126
7.3.2	Gossip as Abduction	127
7.3.3	About the (Lack of?) Corroboration of Hypotheses in Gossip	130
7.4	Epistemic Synergy and Multi-level Abduction	132
7.4.1	Abducing Gossip at Individual Level	132
7.4.2	Abducing on Gossip at Group Level: Confronting Gossip with Rumor-Based Knowledge	136
7.5	Conclusion	140
	References	142
8	Niche Construction Through Gossip and Mobbing: The Mediation of Violence in Technocognitive Niches	145
8.1	Introduction	145
8.2	Internet Actualizing Gossip's Ill Repute	146
8.3	Mediating Violence Through Gossip	148
8.3.1	Gossip as Social Communication: The Naturalistic Fallacy	148
8.3.2	Characterization and Punishment of Deviants	150
8.4	Mediating Gossip Through Social Networks	153
8.5	Why and How Do Social Networks Empower the Distribution of Violence?	155
8.6	Self-Gossip and Self-Mobbing in the Light of the Disruption of Sub-Moralities	158

8.6.1	From Enhancing One's Cyber-Reputation to Self-Mobbing. . . . .	158
8.6.2	Separate (Moral) Words Trigger Bullying . . . . .	161
8.7	Sharing Thoughts: Can the Philosophical Reflection Still Impact Society and Policies?. . . . .	162
8.7.1	Pars Destruens . . . . .	163
8.7.2	Pars Construens . . . . .	164
8.8	Conclusion . . . . .	168
	References. . . . .	168
9	The Crises of Techno-Cognitive Niches: From Maladaptive to Terminator Niches . . . . .	171
9.1	Introduction . . . . .	171
9.2	Virtualized and High-Tech Cognitive Niches . . . . .	172
9.3	Terminator Niches . . . . .	174
9.3.1	In History . . . . .	174
9.3.2	Hyper-Technological Terminator Niches in Popular Culture . . . . .	176
9.4	The Actual Emergence of Hyper-Technological Terminator Niches . . . . .	177
9.4.1	Smart Traffic as a Potential Terminator Niche . . . . .	177
9.4.2	Neo-Liberal Finance as a Terminator Niche . . . . .	179
9.5	Terminator Niches and Supernormal Stimuli . . . . .	182
9.6	Terminator Niches and "The Singularity" . . . . .	184
9.7	Conclusion . . . . .	185
	References. . . . .	186
 Part III The Eco-Cognitive Epistemology of Counterfactual Beliefs
10	Natural Religion, Models, and the Invention of Supernatural Beings . . . . .	191
10.1	Introduction . . . . .	191
10.2	Hypotheses About the Naturalness of Religion . . . . .	194
10.3	Abduction as a Multilevel Model for Perception. . . . .	196
10.4	From the Detection of Natural Agency to the "Invention" of Supernatural Agents . . . . .	201
10.4.1	The Thunderbird Example . . . . .	205
10.5	Embodying Supernatural Agents by Disembodying Cognition . . . . .	206
10.6	Conclusion . . . . .	211
	References. . . . .	212

11 Digitalizing the Religious Niche (and Vice Versa)	215
11.1 Introduction	215
11.2 The Enhanced Religious Niche and Its Perversion	216
11.3 The Feasibility of Online Religion and the Problem of Disembodiment	219
11.4 Cyberspiritual but not Religious	220
11.4.1 Super(natural) Users and Avatars as Semi Gods	221
11.4.2 Tacit Worship of Internet Highways	224
11.5 Conclusion	226

12 Irrationality as an Epistemic Immunization:
Cognitive Bubbles	229
12.1 Introduction	230
12.2 The Epistemic Bubble and the Importance of Doubt	230
12.3 Cognitive Bubbles, the Fixation of Belief and Its Intersubjective Dimension	232
12.4 Moral Bubbles and Their Collective Implementation in Ideologies	235
12.5 Bubbles and Cognitive Firewalls: The Case of Religion	238
12.6 Conclusion	240
References	241
13 The Cognitive Impact of Religious “Rationality”: On Forgiveness and the Sacrificial Mind	243
13.1 Introduction	244
13.2 Sacrifice and Epistemic Violence	244
13.2.1 Sacrificial Violence: Imitation and Limitation	247
13.2.2 The Sacred as a Violent Epistemic Fence	249
13.2.3 Self-Sacrifice and the Scapegoating of Intellect: Christ, Batman, and Girard	253
13.3 Forgiveness: Between Religion and Cognitive Science	259
