

Contents

|          |                                                                      |           |
|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1 | Introduction                                                  | 1  |
| 1.1      | Carbon Nanotubes                                                     | 1         |
| 1.2      | The Experimental Theorist: Computational Modelling                   | 3         |
| 1.3      | Outline of This Thesis                                               | 6         |
|          | References                                                           | 7         |
| 2 | The Structural and Electronic Properties of Carbon Nanotubes  | 9  |
| 2.1      | The Structure of Carbon Nanotubes                                    | 10        |
| 2.1.1    | Carbon Nanotube Wires, Fibres and Networks                           | 11        |
| 2.2      | The Geometry of Individual Carbon Nanotubes                          | 12        |
| 2.3      | The Electronic Properties of Carbon Nanotubes                        | 14        |
| 2.3.1    | Tight-Binding Model of Graphene                                      | 14        |
| 2.3.2    | Zone-Folding Approximation                                           | 17        |
| 2.3.3    | Beyond the $\pi/\pi^*$ Zone-Folding Model                            | 21        |
| 2.3.4    | Electronic Structure of Carbon Nanotube Bundles                      | 21        |
| 2.4      | Summary                                                              | 22        |
|          | References                                                           | 23        |
| 3 | Mesoscopic Current and Ballistic Conductance                  | 25 |
| 3.1      | Introduction                                                         | 25        |
| 3.2      | Scattering Lengths in Carbon Nanotubes                               | 26        |
| 3.3      | Conductance in Mesoscopic Materials: The Landauer-Büttiker Formalism | 29        |
| 3.3.1    | Current from Transmission                                            | 29        |
| 3.3.2    | Ballistic Conductance                                                | 31        |
| 3.3.3    | Conduction at Low Bias and Linear-Response                           | 33        |
| 3.3.4    | Transmission from Green's Functions                                  | 33        |
| 3.3.5    | Limitations of the Landauer-Büttiker Formalism                       | 34        |

|          |                                                                       |           |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 3.4      | Summary . . . . .                                                     | 35        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                   | 35        |
| 4 | First-Principles Methods . . . . .                             | 39 |
| 4.1      | Quasi-particles . . . . .                                             | 39        |
| 4.2      | The Exact Solution to the Schrödinger Equation . . . . .              | 40        |
| 4.2.1    | The Variational Principle . . . . .                                   | 40        |
| 4.2.2    | Exponential Scaling . . . . .                                         | 42        |
| 4.3      | Density Functional Theory . . . . .                                   | 43        |
| 4.3.1    | The Hohenberg-Kohn Theorems . . . . .                                 | 43        |
| 4.3.2    | The Kohn-Sham Mapping . . . . .                                       | 46        |
| 4.3.3    | The Exchange-Correlation Functional . . . . .                         | 48        |
| 4.3.4    | Quasi-particles from Density Functional Theory . . . . .              | 50        |
| 4.3.5    | Limitations of Density Functional Theory . . . . .                    | 51        |
| 4.4      | Practical Implementations. . . . .                                    | 52        |
| 4.4.1    | Basis Sets . . . . .                                                  | 53        |
| 4.4.2    | The Pseudopotential Approximation . . . . .                           | 55        |
| 4.4.3    | Periodic and Aperiodic Systems . . . . .                              | 57        |
| 4.5      | Summary . . . . .                                                     | 59        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                   | 59        |
| 5 | First-Principles Electronic Transport . . . . .                | 63 |
| 5.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                | 63        |
| 5.1.1    | Preliminaries and Definitions . . . . .                               | 65        |
| 5.1.2    | Non-orthogonal Basis . . . . .                                        | 65        |
| 5.2      | Constructing the Device Matrices . . . . .                            | 66        |
| 5.2.1    | Lead Self Energies . . . . .                                          | 66        |
| 5.2.2    | The Auxiliary Simulation Geometry . . . . .                           | 67        |
| 5.3      | Optimisation Strategies . . . . .                                     | 69        |
| 5.4      | Properties Beyond the Transmission Coefficients . . . . .             | 70        |
| 5.4.1    | Properties of the Leads . . . . .                                     | 70        |
| 5.4.2    | Eigenchannels for Multi-lead Devices . . . . .                        | 71        |
| 5.5      | Applications. . . . .                                                 | 74        |
| 5.5.1    | Poly-acetylene Wire . . . . .                                         | 74        |
| 5.5.2    | Conduction Between Terminated CarbonNanotubes . . . . .           | 77        |
| 5.6      | Outstanding Issues . . . . .                                          | 81        |
| 5.7      | Summary . . . . .                                                     | 83        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                   | 84        |
| 6 | Momentum-Resonant Tunnelling Between Carbon Nanotubes. . . . . | 87 |
| 6.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                | 87        |
| 6.2      | Linear-Response from Perturbation Theory. . . . .                     | 89        |

|          |                                                                              |            |
|----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 6.3      | Tight-Binding Model. . . . .                                                 | 92         |
| 6.4      | Resonant Tunnelling Between CNTs. . . . .                                    | 93         |
| 6.4.1    | Scaling Relations of the Momentum-ResonantScattering Mechanism . . . . . | 96         |
| 6.5      | Momentum Resonances in Compositionally DisorderedNetworks. . . . .       | 96         |
| 6.6      | Momentum Resonances in Doped Nanotubes. . . . .                              | 100        |
| 6.7      | Resonant Back-Scattering. . . . .                                            | 103        |
| 6.8      | Summary. . . . .                                                             | 104        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                          | 105        |
| 7 | First-Principles Conductance Between Carbon Nanotubes. . . . .        | 107 |
| 7.1      | Introduction. . . . .                                                        | 107        |
| 7.2      | Methods. . . . .                                                             | 109        |
| 7.2.1    | Generating the Structure. . . . .                                            | 109        |
| 7.3      | The Role of Bend Angle. . . . .                                              | 112        |
| 7.3.1    | The Effect of Chirality Mismatch. . . . .                                    | 114        |
| 7.4      | The Role of End Termination. . . . .                                         | 115        |
| 7.4.1    | The Effect of Chirality Mismatch. . . . .                                    | 122        |
| 7.5      | Conductance Between Terminated Nanotubes at Finite Bias. . .                 | 123        |
| 7.5.1    | Methods. . . . .                                                             | 124        |
| 7.5.2    | Bias Drop. . . . .                                                           | 125        |
| 7.5.3    | Non-equilibrium Forces. . . . .                                              | 125        |
| 7.6      | Conclusions. . . . .                                                         | 127        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                          | 129        |
| 8 | Charge Doping in Water-Adsorbed Carbon Nanotubes. . . . .             | 131 |
| 8.1      | Introduction. . . . .                                                        | 131        |
| 8.2      | Methods. . . . .                                                             | 133        |
| 8.3      | Computing the Charge Polarisation. . . . .                                   | 134        |
| 8.4      | Thermal Effects. . . . .                                                     | 138        |
| 8.5      | Estimating the Residual Charge Transfer. . . . .                             | 140        |
| 8.6      | Considerations of the Electronic Energy Level Alignment. . . .               | 141        |
| 8.7      | Summary. . . . .                                                             | 143        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                          | 144        |
| 9 | Conclusions. . . . .                                                  | 147 |
| 9.1      | Summary. . . . .                                                             | 147        |
| 9.2      | Further Work. . . . .                                                        | 148        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                          | 149        |
|          | Appendix A: Transmission from Green's Functions. . . . .              | 151 |
|          | Appendix B: Block Tri-diagonal Matrix Inversion. . . . .              | 161 |

|                                                                                |            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Appendix C: Classical Electrostatic Charge Polarisation Model . . . . . | 163 |
| Appendix D: Local Density of States . . . . .                           | 165 |

Conduction in Carbon Nanotube Networks

Large-Scale Theoretical Simulations

Bell, R.

2015, XVIII, 166 p. 63 illus., 29 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-19964-1