

Contents

1 Foreword	1
Migration in a World of Genocide	5
Multiculturalism and Genocide	12
A New Way of Thinking About Migration Research	15
References	18
2 The Beginning of the Problem	21
The Rule of Law	25
The Limits to Law	30
References	33
3 Bystanders	35
Bystanders	41
References	52
4 Amnesty and Pardon	55
France	56
Collaborators	58
Amnesty	61
Italy	62
Escapees	69
Genocides	71
References	75
5 Show Trials	77
The Eichmann Show Trial and State Revenge	79
French Show Trials	85
Show Trials and the “Ruptural” Defence	86
Touvier and the Discredit of Symbolic Trials	91
References	96

6 Restorative Justice	97
Restorative Justice	98
Rwanda: Background	104
Legal Openings for the Future.	109
References	121
7 Truth and Reconciliation	123
Background	123
Forgiveness: Setting the Scene	124
South Africa	126
Background	127
The TRC and Forgiveness	129
Outcomes	136
Central America	138
Background	138
Truth Commissions	141
Australia.	144
Background	146
Conclusions	151
References	153
8 Who Can Forgive?	157
The Unforgivable.	169
References	177
9 The Limits to Law: Revenge and Private Justice	179
The Rule of Law in Modernity	183
Private Justice the Way Forward?	190
References	198
Conclusion	201
Afterword	207

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-21848-9>

Migration in the Age of Genocide

Law, Forgiveness and Revenge

Davidson, A.

2015, XIV, 216 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-21848-9