

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	The Historical and Theoretical Context of Foreign Aid in the Modern Era.	1
1.1.1	Historical Background	1
1.1.2	Theoretical Overview	4
1.2	Transnational Financial Transfers as Foreign Aid	6
1.2.1	The Basic Nature of Foreign Aid	6
1.2.2	Foreign Aid as a Foreign Policy Tool	8
1.2.3	The Role of Foreign Aid in Development and the Choice of Development Path	10
1.2.4	Imbalances in Foreign Aid and International Development.	11
1.2.5	Foreign Aid as a Tool for Global Governance	13
1.3	Foreign Aid in China	15
1.3.1	Two Periods in China's History of Receiving Aid	17
1.3.2	The Role of Foreign Aid in China: The Interplay of Directions and Methods	21
1.3.3	The International Significance of Foreign Aid to China	24
2	Foreign Assistance: Substance and Practice	29
2.1	The Substance and Evolution of Foreign Aid.	29
2.2	Types of Foreign Aid	31
2.2.1	Official Development Aid.	31
2.2.2	Other Inter-governmental Aid	33
2.2.3	Non-governmental Aid	33
2.3	Forms and Channels of Foreign Aid.	34
2.3.1	Grants and Loans: Foreign Aid with Different Preferential Terms	34
2.3.2	Key Donors and Recipients and the Main Channels for the Flow of Foreign Aid	35
2.3.3	Main Methods of Foreign Aid	40
2.3.4	Policy Dialogue and Conditionality	42

2.4	Why Provide Aid?	44
2.4.1	Development Goals: Promoting Economic and Social Development in Recipient Countries	45
2.4.2	Serving the Economic, Political and Security Interests of Donor Countries.	46
2.4.3	Solving Global Problems	47
2.5	New Trends and New Characteristics of Current Global Official Development Assistance.	48
2.5.1	Development Trend 1: the Overall Scope of Official Development Aid Has Continually Increased	48
2.5.2	Development Trend 2: DAC Countries Increase the Proportion of Grants, and the Political Goals of Aid Become More Obvious	50
2.5.3	Development Trend 3: the Foreign Aid System Has Become Increasingly Networked Both Internally and Externally	51
3	Soviet Aid to China	57
3.1	Motivations Underlying Soviet Aid to China.	57
3.1.1	Soviet Aid to the Kuomintang (KMT) Government During China's War of Resistance Against Japan (the Anti-Japanese War)	57
3.1.2	New China's Foreign Policy and Soviet Aid	61
3.1.3	How National Interests Found Expression in Soviet Aid to China	73
3.2	An Overview of Soviet Aid to China	78
3.2.1	The Scale and Scope of Soviet Aid to New China.	78
3.2.2	Main Forms Taken by Soviet Aid.	83
3.2.3	The Role of Soviet Experts	91
3.2.4	The End of Soviet Aid to China	97
3.3	Effects of Soviet Aid on China's Construction of a Socialist Planned Economy.	99
3.3.1	Soviet Aid and the Formation of Industrial Systems in New China	99
3.3.2	Soviet Aid and the Choice of the Way Forward for China's Development.	101
4	Multilateral Foreign Aid to China After 1979	107
4.1	The Nature of Multilateral Organizations	108
4.1.1	United Nations Aid Organizations	109
4.1.2	The World Bank	127
4.2	Multilateral Aid in China	150
4.2.1	United Nations Agencies' Aid to China	150
4.3	How UN Organizations Exert Influence.	170
4.4	Mutual Exchange Between China and the World Bank.	224

5	Bilateral Aid to China Since 1979	231
5.1	Special Characteristics of Bilateral Aid: Funding Sources and Channels of Foreign Aid	232
5.1.1	Bilateral Aid Funding Sources, Missions, and Management Systems	232
5.1.2	Key Channels for Providing Bilateral Aid	248
5.2	Bilateral Aid to China Since 1970	254
5.2.1	Why Donor Countries Provided China with Bilateral Aid	254
5.2.2	The Chinese Internal Management System for Bilateral Aid	270
5.2.3	Management System for Bilateral Aid Reception	272
5.2.4	Overall Shifts in Aid to China Since 1979	277
5.2.5	The Relationship Between Bilateral Aid and China's Reform and Opening up: Assistance or Guidance?	285
5.2.6	The Role of the Chinese Government: Proprietor or Partner?	290
5.3	Bilateral Aid as a Tool for Policy Leverage and Social Transformation	291
5.3.1	Ways that Bilateral Aid Activities Exert Influence in China	292
5.3.2	The Role of Bilateral Aid Activities	300
6	Aid in China and NGOs	311
6.1	The Role Played by NGOs in the Aid Sector in China	311
6.1.1	The Concept of NGOs and Their Sources of Funding	312
6.1.2	The Relationship Between NGOs and Official Development Aid Agencies	315
6.1.3	The Functions of NGOs in the Aid Sector in China	319
6.1.4	Ways that NGOs Enter China and Their Cooperative Partners in China	323
6.2	The Fundamentals of International NGO Operations in China	331
6.2.1	Historical Overview and Development Trends	331
6.2.2	The Primary Motives for International NGOs to Operate in China	337
6.2.3	The Primary Sectors of International NGO Aid Operations in China	344
6.3	The Working Methods of International NGOs	352
6.3.1	Project Approval and Initiation	352
6.3.2	Project Implementation	356
6.4	The Role of International NGOs and Ways that They Exert Influence in China	363
6.4.1	Approaches that NGOs Adopt to Exert Influence in China Through Aid Projects	364
6.4.2	The Functions of International NGO Aid Activities	368
	Erratum to: Foreign Aid in China	E1

Foreign Aid in China

Zhou, H.; Zhang, J.; Zhang, M.

2015, VII, 370 p. 21 illus., 1 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-662-44272-2