

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	The Aim of This Study	1
1.2	The Chinese Language and Beginnings of Grammar Studies in Traditional Chinese Philology	3
1.3	The Definition and Scope of Grammar Studies	10
1.4	Beginnings of Grammar Studies in Traditional Chinese Philology	13
1.4.1	Beginnings of Grammar Studies	13
1.4.2	Reasons for the Lack of Grammar Studies	18
1.5	The Teaching of Foreign Languages in China and Early Western Studies of Chinese Grammar	21
1.5.1	The Study of Foreign Languages in China	21
1.5.2	Early Western Studies of Chinese Grammar	23
1.6	Language Policy and Grammar Studies in Twentieth-Century China	27
1.6.1	Language Policy in Twentieth-Century China	27
1.6.2	An Overview of Modern Chinese Grammar Studies	31
1.7	Problems Pertaining to the History of Modern Chinese Grammar Studies	35
1.7.1	The Problem Areas in Chinese Grammar Studies	35
1.7.2	The Reference Works	36
2	The Mashi Wentong	39
2.1	Introduction	39
2.1.1	The Authors of the Mashi Wentong	39
2.1.2	The Authorship of the MSWT	41
2.2	The Grammatical System of the MSWT	42
2.2.1	The Parts of Speech	43
2.2.2	The Grammatical Functions	50
2.2.3	The Sentence Positions	52

2.2.4	Syntax.....	54
2.2.5	Examples of Analysis.....	63
2.3	Evaluation of the MSWT.....	67
3	The Period of Imitation (1898–1930).....	71
3.1	Introduction.....	71
3.2	Zhang Shizhao’s “Intermediate Chinese Grammar”.....	75
3.2.1	Comments on the Conspectus.....	77
3.3	Chen Chengze’s “A Draft of Chinese Grammar”.....	80
3.4	Yang Shuda’s “Advanced Chinese Grammar”.....	85
3.5	Liu Fu’s “Comprehensive Discussion on Chinese Grammar”.....	88
3.6	Jin Zhaozi’s “Study of Chinese Grammar”.....	94
3.7	Li Jinxi’s “New Grammar of the National Language”.....	97
3.8	Recapitulation.....	104
4	Innovation and Maturation (1930–1949).....	107
4.1	Introduction.....	107
4.2	New Approaches to Grammar in the 1930s.....	113
4.2.1	Wang Li.....	113
4.2.2	Meng Qi’s “Words and Sentences”.....	120
4.3	The Discussion on “Innovation of Grammar”.....	124
4.3.1	Object and Methodology of Grammar Studies.....	124
4.3.2	One-Line System vs. Two-Line System.....	125
4.3.3	Monosyllabic vs. Polysyllabic.....	129
4.3.4	Wenyan vs. Baihua ; Diachronic vs. Synchronous.....	130
4.3.5	Liao Shuqian’s “Vernacular Grammar”.....	131
4.4	Wang Li’s “Modern Chinese Grammar”.....	133
4.4.1	Basic Grammatical System.....	133
4.4.2	Secondary Topics.....	137
4.4.3	Evaluation of Wang’s Grammar.....	138
4.5	Lü Shuxiang’s “Outline of Chinese Grammar”.....	141
4.5.1	The Grammatical System.....	141
4.5.2	Evaluation of Lü’s Grammar.....	145
4.6	Gao Mingkai’s “Theory of Chinese Grammar”.....	147
4.6.1	Outline of the Grammatical System.....	147
4.6.2	Evaluation of Gao’s Grammar.....	150
5	The Age of Standardization.....	153
5.1	Introduction.....	153
5.2	The Grammar Section’s “Talks on Modern Chinese Grammar”.....	158
5.2.1	Outline of the Grammatical System.....	158
5.2.2	Evaluation of “Talks on Modern Chinese Grammar”.....	162

5.3	Lü Shuxiang and Zhu Dexi's "Talks on Grammar and Rhetorics" .....	165
5.3.1	Outline.....	165
5.3.2	Evaluation of "Talks on Grammar and Rhetorics".....	168
5.4	Zhang Zhigong's "Essentials of Chinese Grammar" .....	168
5.4.1	Outline of the Grammatical System.....	168
5.4.2	Evaluation of "Essentials of Chinese Grammar".....	172
5.5	The Provisional System.....	173
6	Summary and Conclusions .....	177
6.1	An Overview of Modern Chinese Grammar Studies .....	177
6.2	An Appraisal of Modern Chinese Grammar Studies.....	182
	Appendix .....	185
	Bibliography .....	187
	Index .....	197

The History of Modern Chinese Grammar Studies

Peverelli, P.

2015, XII, 204 p. 8 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-662-46503-5