

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	A Rising Counter-hegemonic Chorus	1
1.3	Targets of Outrage	7
1.4	Protest as Cultural Object and Symbol of “One Country, Two Systems”	10
1.5	Why a Subaltern–Hegemonic Construct?	12
1.6	Observational Framework: Visualizing Protest	14
1.7	Data and Method	18
1.8	Photo Essays	24
1.8.1	March on China’s Liaison Office over Suspicious Death of Tiananmen activist Li Wangyang, June 2012	24
1.8.2	Demonstration over Anti-Islam “Innocence of Islam” YouTube Video, September 2012	36
1.8.3	Protest over US Intervention in Syria, September 2013	44
1.8.4	“Defend Snowden” Rally from Chater Garden to the US Consulate, June 2013	47
1.8.5	“Justice for Erwiana” protests and “One Billion Rising for Justice,” January and February 2014	54
1.8.6	Taiwan Sunflower Movement, Candlelight Vigil, and “We Save Taiwan in Hong Kong,” March 2014	65
1.8.7	“Anti-locust” and “patriotic parody” protests; “toddler-gate” stickers, February and March 2014	78
1.8.8	“Save Vietnam”: South China Seas Conflict, June 2014	97
1.8.9	“Defend Hong Kong Press Freedoms!,” March 2014	101
	References	111
2	Visual Struggle	115
2.1	Visual Struggle: Image Bites, Events, and Politics	115
2.2	Targets of Visual Struggle	117
2.3	Spreading Conflagrations of Counter-Visuality	120
2.4	Photo Essays	124

2.4.1	Anti-MNE and Occupation of HKSAR Government Headquarters, September 2012	124
2.4.2	Dockworkers' Occupation of Cheung Kong Centre in Central Business District, April 2013	142
2.4.3	HKTV "Core Values" Protest and Occupation of the HKSAR Government Headquarters, October 2013	153
2.4.4	Anti-"White Elephant" NENT Development Plan Protest, May 2014	167
2.4.5	"Defend Teacher Lam!," also known as "WTF" Protest in Mongkok Pedestrian Area, August 2013	184
2.4.6	"Yue Yuen Shoe Factory Workers Strike," May 2014	194
2.4.7	Alternative June 4th Observance at Tsimshatsui Clock Tower, June 2014	199
	References	206
3	The City as Enabler	207
3.1	The City.....	207
3.2	Public Transportation	209
3.3	Urban Fabric and Textures as Visualization.....	211
3.3.1	Street Banners.....	211
3.3.2	Banner Defacements.....	212
3.3.3	'Banner Wars'	212
3.4	'Street Clashes and Serenades'	215
3.5	Photo Essays.....	216
3.5.1	'Falun Gong Banner Wars,' December 2012 to April 2013	216
3.5.2	'Great George Street Wars,' March 2014	216
	References	237
4	Venues of Counter-Hegemonic Visuality; Days of Contention	239
4.1	City of Protests	239
4.2	Causeway Bay.....	243
4.2.1	Patterson Street Pedestrian Zone.....	246
4.2.2	Times Square	249
4.2.3	Victoria Park.....	255
4.3	Wan Chai	263
4.4	Central and Western	264
4.4.1	Charter Garden	265
4.4.2	Statue Square	269
4.5	"Days of Contention" Photo Essays.....	270
4.5.1	'Hong Kong Revolutions 2013' New Year's Day Procession, January 2013	270
4.5.2	'May Day' Procession from Victoria Park to HKSAR Government Headquarters, May 2012	282

4.5.3	June 4th Candlelight Vigil in Victoria Park, June 2012	291
4.5.4	June 4th Candlelight Vigil in Victoria Park, June 2013	299
4.5.5	July 1st procession, July 2012.....	305
4.5.6	July 1st procession, July 2013.....	319
4.5.7	‘Unlawful Assembly’ Procession for Chinese Dissidents on China’s National Day, October 2013	330
	References	342
5	Cityscape as Oppressor	345
5.1	Urban Maneuvers	345
5.1.1	Political Flowerbeds	347
5.1.2	Flowers, but no “Jasmine”	348
5.2	Police Surveillance.....	350
5.3	Designated Public Activity Areas, Press, and Security Zones	352
5.4	Photo Essay	354
5.4.1	From “City of Protests” to “City of Barriers”	354
	References	362
6	Discussion.....	365
6.1	What Can Be Seen.....	365
6.2	“Streets of Fire”	366
6.3	“Take It to the Street”	369
6.3.1	Guy Fawkes and “V for Vendetta”	371
6.3.2	“Who’s Afraid of Ai Weiwei?”	371
6.4	“Attack of the Visual”	376
6.5	“Fortress Hong Kong”	378
6.5.1	“Hong Kong’s Tank Man,” June 2014	379
6.5.2	“Fortress Hong Kong,” “No White Paper”!, and “OCLP Dry-Run,” June and July 2014	381
	References	391
7	Conclusion	395
7.1	Conclusion.....	395

Counter-hegemonic Resistance in China's Hong Kong
Visualizing Protest in the City

Garrett, D.P.

2015, IX, 396 p. 530 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-287-235-7