

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	References	7
2	Turmoil and Unrest	9
	1976 and Its Aftermath	11
	White Writers Narrating the 1976 Riots	12
	Black Writers Narrating the Unrest of the 70s and 80s	17
	White Resistance	20
	Conclusion	22
	References	23
3	Identity, Space and Race	27
	Segregation	29
	Merging Space	31
	Place and a Search for Identity	35
	The Example of Song of Be and the N!ore	36
	The Physical Landscape	37
	Homelessness	39
	Conclusion	41
	References	41
4	The Post-apartheid Adolescent Subject	45
	Negotiating Identity and Power in the School	46
	Caught Between Two Worlds	49
	Prejudice and Acceptance	52
	Crime and Poverty	55
	Negotiating Identity and Power as Other	58
	Conclusion	62
	References	63
5	Transgression, Romance and Sexuality	65
	Romance	67
	Negative Consequences of Sexual Activity	69

Silence in Relation to HIV/AIDS	72
Patriarchal Attitudes and Gender-Based Violence.	73
Internet Predators	76
Gender and Sexual Identity	77
Conclusion.	81
References	81
6 Fantasy, Myth, and Legend	85
Traditional Belief Systems	87
Fantasy, History and Legend	89
Fantasy and Realism— The Hidden Star	93
New Directions	94
Horror Novels and Speculative Fiction	99
Conclusion.	101
References	101
7 Benevolence and Malevolence	105
Dystopian Fiction	105
South African Dystopias	108
Post-disaster and Post-apocalyptic Novels	112
Conclusion.	115
References	117
8 Conclusion and Afterthoughts	119

Transition and Transgression

English Young Adult Fiction in Post-Apartheid South Africa

Inggs, J.

2016, VI, 120 p., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-25532-3