

Contents

Part I Introduction

1 Bank Involvement with SMEs: Introduction	3
1.1 Background and Overview	3
1.2 Financing Options for SMEs	6
1.3 Rationale for Bank Finance for SMEs	8
References	8

Part II Theoretical Framework

2 Theoretical Views on Money Creation and Credit Rationing	13
2.1 Loanable Funds Theory Versus Post-Keynesian Endogenous Money Theory	13
2.2 Information Asymmetry and Credit Rationing	15
2.2.1 The New-Keynesian Theory—The Stiglitz and Weiss (S-W) Model	15
2.2.2 The Post-Keynesian Theory of Credit Rationing	16
References	17
3 A Simplified Model of Adverse Selection in Loan Markets	19
3.1 Solution of the Model Under Perfect Information.	20
3.1.1 Intuitions	20
3.2 Solution of the Model Under Asymmetric Information	21
3.3 Tools to Help Solve Adverse Selection Problems.	22
3.4 Tools to Help Solve Moral Hazard Problems.	23
3.5 Credit Rationing and the Use of Loan Commitments	25
References	25

Part III Determinants of Credit Availability to SMEs

4 Demand-Side Factors Affecting Bank Lending to SMEs	29
4.1 Firm Characteristics	29
4.1.1 Firm Size	29
4.1.2 Firm's Age/Transparency	30
4.1.3 Firm Profitability/Financial Performance	30
4.1.4 Financial Stability (Leverage and Liquidity)	31
4.1.5 Firm's Organisational Form	32
4.1.6 Nature of Business of Firm's Industrial Sector	32
4.1.7 Firm's Credit Rating	33
4.2 Owner Characteristics	33
4.2.1 Owner/Entrepreneur's Credit Rating	33
4.2.2 Owners' Educational Attainment	34
4.2.3 Owners' Business Experience	34
4.2.4 Owner's Equity Stake/Contribution	34
4.2.5 Owner's Personal Wealth	35
4.2.6 Owner's Physical/Social Characteristics (e.g. Age, Gender, Race, and Nationality)	35
4.3 Firm-Lender Relationship Characteristics	35
4.3.1 Deposit Relationship	36
4.3.2 Loan Relationship	36
4.3.3 Financial Management Relationship	36
4.3.4 The Length and Exclusivity of Relationship	37
4.3.5 Distance and Mode of Interaction	37
4.3.6 Effects of Relationships on the Availability of Credit	38
4.4 Demand Side Market Failures	38
4.4.1 Availability of Marketable Collateral	38
4.4.2 Strength of Borrowers' Balance Sheet	39
4.4.3 Information Market Failures	39
4.4.4 Business Confidence	40
4.4.5 Poor Quality of Projects	40
4.4.6 Inability to Exploit Existing Opportunities	40
References	41
5 Supply-Side Factors Affecting Bank Lending to SMEs	45
5.1 Risk and Cost Factors	45
5.1.1 Cost of Funds	45
5.1.2 Informational Asymmetries	45
5.1.3 Lenders' Risk Appetite	46
5.1.4 Transaction Costs	47
5.2 Financial Institution and Market Structure	47
5.2.1 Bank Size and Organizational Structure	47
5.2.2 Ownership Structure	48
5.2.3 Effect of Bank Consolidation	49

5.2.4	Effect of Bank Market Structure and Competition	50
5.2.5	The Profitability Incentive	51
5.3	Lending Technology	52
5.3.1	Relationship Lending	53
5.3.2	Small Business Credit Scoring (SBCS).	57
5.3.3	Other Innovative Lending Techniques	62
5.4	Lending Infrastructure	65
5.4.1	The Economics of Information	67
5.4.2	The Legal, Judicial and Bankruptcy Environment	68
5.4.3	The Tax and Regulatory Environment	68
	References	69

Part IV Determinants of Loan Contract Terms

6	Determinants of SME Loan Contracts	75
6.1	Determinants of Risk Premium on SME Loans	75
6.1.1	Borrowing Firm's Characteristics and Risk Premium	75
6.1.2	Lender Characteristics and Risk Premium.	78
6.1.3	The Role of Relationships in Loan Pricing	80
6.1.4	External Factors Affecting SME Loan Pricing	81
6.2	Determinants of Collateral on SME Loans	83
6.2.1	Collateral and Loan Characteristics	83
6.2.2	Collateral and Borrower Risk Characteristics.	84
6.2.3	Collateral and Lender Characteristics	85
6.2.4	Collateral and Loan Relationships	86
6.2.5	Collateral and External Factors	86
	References	87
7	Conclusions and Practical Implications	91

Determinants of Bank Involvement with SMEs

A Survey of Demand-Side and Supply-Side Factors

Ekpu, V.U.

2016, XII, 94 p. 1 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-25836-2