

Contents

1	British Interest in Iran's Oil: Prelude to Conflict.	1
1.1	The Iranian Economy.	1
1.2	Preliminary Assessments of Unfair Agreements.	3
1.3	Iran Objects: Revision of the Oil Agreement.	5
1.4	The Nationalisation of Oil.	8
1.5	Organisation of the Book	12
	References	13
2	British Retaliation After the Nationalisation of Iran's Oil	15
2.1	Apparent Calm: Negotiations.	15
2.1.1	Collapse of Discussions with the World Bank.	22
2.2	Violence and Military Threat.	23
2.3	Sending Spies to Iran.	25
2.4	Legal Action.	27
2.5	British Propaganda and Consultation with the Americans	28
2.6	The Oil Boycott	30
2.7	Conclusion	32
	References	33
3	British Interference in Iranian Internal Politics	35
3.1	Tehran in Protest: The Prelude	35
3.2	The British Action: Their Candidates for PM	38
3.2.1	The Shah's Opinion.	41
3.3	Struggle for Power.	42
3.3.1	Resignation of Dr. Mosaddeq	44
3.3.2	Qavām's Four Days as PM and the Uprising of 21 July 1952 (30 Tir 1331).	45
3.3.3	The Reaction of the National Front and the Shah to Qavām as PM	46
3.3.4	Impact of the Uprising (21 July 1952/30 Tir 1331)	48

3.4	Demonising Communism	50
3.5	The Truman–Churchill Proposal: Dr. Mosaddeq’s Assessment.	54
3.6	The Plan to Overthrow Dr. Mosaddeq’s Government	56
3.7	Conclusion	57
	References	58
4	Diverse Strategies Solidify Amid Anti-Mosaddeq Sentiment	61
4.1	The Durbar: Arouse the Shah	61
4.2	The Presence of the Clergy	63
4.3	The Shake-up of the Majlis	65
4.4	The Second Extension of Dr. Mosaddeq’s Authority: Increasing Opponents	68
4.5	Further Internal Political Disturbances and the British Plot	71
4.5.1	The Riot of Bakhtiyārī in February 1953	71
4.5.2	The Infamous Plot to Murder Afshār Tūs in April 1953	73
4.5.3	Selecting a PM for the Post-Coup Government	75
4.6	The Proposed Referendum and the Proposed Departure of the Shah	76
4.6.1	The British Plot to Assassinate Dr. Mosaddeq: Events of 28 February 1953 (9 Esfand 1331)	77
4.6.2	The Aftermath	80
4.7	Conclusion	83
	References	83
5	Decisive Crackdown and Concluding Remarks	87
5.1	The Final Blow to Dr. Mosaddeq’s Government	87
5.2	Dr. Mosaddeq’s Pre-emptive Measures	93
5.3	Understanding the Past, Looking to the Future	97
	References	100
	Appendix: Scope, Data, Methodology and Limitations	101
	Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM)	103
	About the Author	107
	About the Book.	109

The British Role in Iranian Domestic Politics
(1951-1953)

Ebrahimi, M.

2016, XI, 109 p. 6 illus., 5 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-31097-8