
Contents

Acknowledgments V

Introduction: Technology, Utopianism and Eschatology 1
Hava Tirosh-Samuelson and J. Benjamin Hurlbut

Part I Technological Imaginations

1 What Does the Debate on (Post)human Futures Tell Us? Methodology of Hermeneutical Analysis and Vision Assessment 35
Armin Grunwald

2 Manifestations of the Posthuman in the Postsecular Imagination 51
Elaine Graham

3 Perfecting the Human: Posthuman Imaginaries and Technologies of Reason 73
Sheila Jasanoff

4 Heidegger on Techno-Posthumanism: Revolt against Finitude, or Doing What Comes “Naturally”? 97
Michael E. Zimmerman

Part II Ethics and Politics of Envisioned Futures

5 Transhumanism Is Humanism, and Humanism Is Transhumanism 121
Micha Brumlik

6	Three Transhumanist Types of (Post)Human Perfection	141
	Stefan Lorenz Sorgner
7	Reduced Heritage: How Transhumanism Secularizes and Desecularizes Religious Visions	159
	Thorsten Moos
8	The Cognitive and Practical Relevance of Technological Visions	179
	Franc Mali
9	Enhancing Machine Nature: From the Myth of the Machine to Sociotechnical Imaginaries of Nonmechanical Machines	195
	Alfred Nordmann

Part III The Transhumanist Imagination in Context

10	Perfecting European Democracy: Science as a Problem of Technological and Political Progress	217
	Brice Laurent
11	Technologies of Transcendence at Singularity University	239
	Margarita Boenig-Liptsin and J. Benjamin Hurlbut
12	Scientific Humanisms and Technological Utopias: Situating the Transhumanist Imagination	269
	Nasser Zakariya
13	Future Vision in Transhumanist Writings and the Religious Public	291
	John H. Evans
14	The Quest for Enhanced Consciousness in Everyday Life	307
	G. Pascal Zachary
	Bibliography	327
	Contributors	357
	Index	363

Perfecting Human Futures

Transhuman Visions and Technological Imaginations

Hurlbut, J.B.; Tirosh-Samuelson, H. (Eds.)

2016, VIII, 380 p. 1 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-658-11043-7