

Contents

1	Background	1
1.1	Introduction and Related Work	2
1.2	Preliminaries	3
1.2.1	Safe Petri Nets	3
1.2.2	Mobile Ambients	3
1.2.3	Bisimulations	5
2	Translating MA Processes into Safe Petri Nets — The Idea	7
2.1	Translating MA Terms into Safe Petri Net Markings	8
2.2	Translating Capability Actions into Petri Net Transitions	9
2.2.1	The Capability Action in m	10
2.2.2	The Capability Action out m	10
2.2.3	The Capability Action open m	11
2.2.4	The Semaphore’s Necessity	12
2.3	Managing Names in the Petri Net	13
2.3.1	Distinguishing Link from Ambient Names	13
2.3.2	Assigning a Restricted Link Name	14
2.3.3	Assigning an Ambient Name	15
2.3.4	Releasing an Ambient Name	15
2.3.5	Releasing a Restricted Link Name	15
2.4	Guaranteeing Finiteness	18
3	Translating MA Processes into Safe Petri Nets — Complete Construction	21
3.1	From MA to rMA	22
3.1.1	The Refined MA Calculus	22
3.1.2	Preprocessing MA	22
3.1.3	Bisimulation between MA and rMA	23
3.2	The Resulting MA-Petri Nets MA-PN	23
3.2.1	Places and Markings	23
3.2.2	Transitions	26
3.3	From rMA to MA-PN	33
3.3.1	Stable MA-PN Markings Maintain a Tree Structure	34
3.3.2	Connection between rMA and MA-PN	36
3.3.3	Bisimulation between rMA and MA-PN	42
4	Further Remarks	45
4.1	Extensions and Optimisation	46
4.1.1	Relaxed MA Semantics	46
4.1.2	Simulation of Unbounded Processes	47
4.1.3	Saving Transitions by Modularisation	50
4.1.4	Excluding Public Names from Parameter Lists	50
4.2	Conclusion and Future Work	51

A	Transition Summary	53
A.1	Summary: The MA-PN Transitions	54
A.1.1	Transitions for rMA Actions	54
A.1.2	Transitions for Equivalence Transformations	56
B	Polynomial Construction Using a Substitution Net	59
B.1	The New Buds	60
B.2	The Substitution Net	60
B.2.1	Influence on Capabilities and Silent Actions	60
B.2.2	Ambient Spawn	61
B.2.3	The Restriction	61
B.2.4	The Parallel Composition	61
B.2.5	The Call	62
	References	65

A Polynomial Translation of Mobile Ambients into Safe
Petri Nets

Understanding a Calculus of Hierarchical Protection
Domains

Göbel, S.

2016, IX, 66 p. 15 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-658-11764-1