

Contents

Preface	V
Abstract.....	VII
Figures	XI
Tables.....	XIII
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Major challenges of contemporary management research	2
1.2 Improving management research by introducing socioeconomic background	5
1.3 Socioeconomic background in management research: What has been done so far?	9
2 Literature Review.....	17
2.1 Managerial attitudes and the recent crisis	17
2.2 Dependent variables – Effects	20
2.2.1 Risk propensity	20
2.2.2 Sense of control	22
2.2.3 Justice perceptions	26
2.3 Dependent variables – Determinants	29
2.3.1 Risk propensity	29
2.3.2 Sense of control	33
2.3.3 Justice perceptions	37
3 Theoretical Model & Hypotheses.....	39
3.1 Research model	39
3.2 Hypotheses	54
3.3 Control variables	71
4 Operationalization & Methods	75
4.1 The GSOEP and its use in management research	75
4.2 Operationalizing ‘socioeconomic background’	77

4.3	Operationalizing the dependent variables	80
4.3.1	Risk propensity	80
4.3.2	Sense of control	83
4.3.3	Justice perceptions	86
4.4	Operationalizing the 4-group classification of organizational leaders	89
4.5	Control variables	94
4.6	Methods	95
5	Empirical Results	99
5.1	Descriptive statistics	99
5.2	Testing the research hypotheses	113
5.3	Sensitivity checks	137
5.4	Summarizing assessment of the empirical findings	149
6	Concluding Discussion	155
6.1	Integrating the findings within extant knowledge	155
6.2	Future research	161
6.3	Managerial implications	168
6.4	Final remark.....	171
	References	173
	Appendix	201

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-658-12062-7>

More Class in Management Research

The Relationship between Socioeconomic Background and Managerial Attitudes

Kemayou, Y.

2016, XIV, 214 p. 14 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-658-12062-7