A Relevance of social networks for brand management	1
1 How new media challenge brand management	1
2 Approaches evaluating brand pages	10
2.1 State of the art research on engagement	16
2.2 Participation	23
2.3 Rationale for a psychographic measure	24
3 The position of brand pages in marketing theory	26
3.1 Research on brand communities	28
3.2 Differentiating brand pages and brand communities	33
3.3 The concept of brand pages	37
4 Gaps in current research evaluating brand pages	37
5 Research objective, research questions and outline of the study	40
B Theoretical foundations	43
1 Identity-based brand management model as theoretical basis	43
1.1 Development of the identity-based brand management model	43
1.2 Brand identity	45
1.3 Brand image.....	49
1.4 The relevance of interaction for identity-based brand management.....	50
2 Attachment as central construct for assessing brand pages	55
2.1 The attachment construct.....	56
2.2 Reviewing the concept of attachment	57
2.2.1 State of the art research on brand attachment.....	57
2.2.2 State of the art research on brand community attachment	69
2.3 Distinction from related constructs	71
2.3.1 Brand attitude strength.....	71
2.3.2 Consumer-brand relationship	74

2.3.3	Brand love	77
2.3.4	Identification	80
2.3.5	Commitment	84
2.4	Introducing the concept of brand page attachment	90
2.4.1	Defining brand page attachment	90
2.4.2	Conceptualising brand page attachment	93
2.5	Summary	102
3	Antecedents of brand page attachment	103
3.1	Information and service	104
3.2	Entertainment	105
3.3	Social value	107
3.4	Economic incentives	108
4	Behavioural consequences of brand page attachment	109
4.1	Brand page participation	110
4.2	Word-of-mouth	111
4.3	Co-creation of value and meaning	113
4.4	Willingness to share personal data	114
4.5	Intention to maintain connection	115
5	Moderating effects between brand page attachment and its behavioural consequences	116
5.1	Propensity to interact	117
5.2	Privacy concerns	118
6	Summary and visualisation of research model	121
C	Empirical validation of antecedents and consequences of brand page attachment	123
1	Research design	123
1.1	Structure of research process	123
1.2	Pre-study investigating relevant antecedents	124
1.3	Data collection and sample characteristics of main study	126
1.3.1	Questionnaire and pre-test	127
1.3.2	Data check and data cleansing	129
1.3.3	Sample statistics	132

2	Methodological basis for the measurement of theoretical constructs	135
2.1	Structural equation modelling (SEM)	135
2.2	Structural equation modelling with partial least squares (PLS-SEM).....	139
2.3	Second-order constructs	140
2.4	Moderating effects.....	142
2.5	Quality criteria for PLS structural equation modelling	143
2.5.1	Evaluation of the measurement models	144
2.5.1.1	Quality criteria for the evaluation of reflective measurement models.....	144
2.5.1.2	Quality criteria for the evaluation of formative measurement models.....	146
2.5.2	Evaluation of the structural model.....	149
3	Operationalisation and validation of constructs	152
3.1	Operationalisation procedure	152
3.2	Operationalisation and evaluation of the construct brand page attachment	156
3.3	Operationalisation and evaluation of the antecedent constructs	162
3.4	Operationalisation and evaluation of behavioural consequences.....	166
3.5	Operationalisation and evaluation of moderating constructs	174
4	Analysis of the structural model.....	179
4.1	Evaluation of inner model.....	179
4.2	Evaluation of moderating effects.....	182
4.3	Differences between industry types	184
4.4	Discrimination from competing constructs	189
D	Conclusion, reflection and outlook	193
1	Summary of the empirical results.....	193
2	Managerial implications.....	196
2.1	Definition of brand page objectives.....	198
2.2	Deducing brand page key performance indicators	199
3	Implications for further research	206
	Appendix.....	207
