Contents

1 Significance of the Study of Health Economics 1
- 1.1 Introduction 1
- 1.2 Role of State and the Health Sector in Developing Economies 5
- 1.3 Allocation of Resources in the Health Sector 7
- 1.4 Economics and Its Relevance for Health Sector 8
- 1.5 Health System 12
- 1.6 Health Management and Health Economics 14
- 1.7 Objectives of the Present Study 15
- 1.8 Methodology of the Study 19

References 20

2 Economic Tools Used for the Analysis of Health Sector 23
- 2.1 Introduction 23
- 2.2 Role of Demand in Health Economics 25
- 2.3 Determinants of Demand in Health Economics 25
- 2.4 The Uniqueness of Health Care and Its Demand 29
- 2.5 Elasticity of Demand and Its Significance for Health Care Sector 31
- 2.6 Income Elasticity of Demand for Health Sector 33
- 2.7 Cross Elasticity of Demand and Its Significance for the Health Sector 34
- 2.8 Elasticity of Demand and the Heath Sector 34
- 2.9 Production Cost of Health Care Services 36
- 2.10 Economic Efficiency and Economic Evaluation of the Health Sector 40
- 2.11 Measurement of Costs of Health Delivery 43
- 2.12 Economic Models 45

References 45

3 Health Economics: A Review 47
- 3.1 Studies on Theoretical Issues of Health Economics 47
- 3.2 Studies on Investment in the Health Sector 50

3.3 Studies on Education and Health 52
3.4 Empirical Studies of the Impact of Health on Economic Growth ... 53
References 55

4 Significance of Health Financing and Investment for Health Economics 57
4.1 Health Expenditure and Health Finance 57
4.2 Human Capital Approach 59
4.3 Investment in Health 60
4.4 Public Health Spending 61
4.5 Theoretical Underpinnings of Public Expenditure on Health 62
4.6 Health Expenditure Policies 63
4.7 Health Status and Health Expenditure 65
4.8 Health Expenditure in India 66
4.9 Econometric Analysis of Health Expenditure in India 69
4.9.1 Relationship Between Health Expenditure and Life Expectancy 72
4.10 Conclusion and Main Findings 82
References 84

5 Determinants of Health Status 87
5.1 Introduction 87
5.2 Education as a Determinant Factor of Health 88
5.2.1 Education as a Determinant of Infant Mortality Rate (Urban and Rural) 91
5.2.2 Female Education as a Determinant of Infant Mortality (Urban and Rural) 93
5.2.3 Education as a Determinant of Mortality Rate (Urban and Rural) 94
5.2.4 Female Education as a Determinant of Mortality Rate (Urban and Rural) 95
5.2.5 Education as Determinant of Crude Death Rate, Underweight Children and Children with Stunted Growth 97
5.3 Water as a Determinant of Health Status 98
5.3.1 Water as a Determinant of Infant Mortality 101
5.3.2 Water as a Determinant of Mortality Rates (Below 5 Years) 102
5.4 Sanitation as a Determinant of Health Status 104
5.4.1 Infant Mortality and Sanitation 105
5.4.2 Infant Mortality and Open Latrines 106
5.4.3 Sanitation as Determinant of Mortality Rate (Under 5 Years) 107
5.4.4 Sanitation and Education 109
5.5 Immunisation as a Determinant of Health Status 112
5.5.1 Immunisation as a Determinant of Infant Mortality 113

5.5.2 Immunisation and Literacy as Determinants of Mortality Rate 114
5.5.3 Immunisation and Female Literacy as Determinants of Infant Mortality 115
5.5.4 Immunisation as a Determinant of Mortality Rate (Below 5 Years) 115
5.5.5 Immunisation and Education as Determinants of Mortality Rate 116
5.5.6 Immunisation and Female Literacy as Determinants of Infant Mortality 117
5.5.7 Immunisation as a Determinant of Life Expectancy 118
5.5.8 Immunisation as a Determinant of Underweight Children and Children with Stunted Growth 119
5.5.9 Immunisation and General Education and Female Education as Determinants of Underweight Children and Children with Stunted Growth 120
5.6 Health Infrastructure as a Determinant of Health Status 121
5.6.1 Physical Health Infrastructure and Health Status 124
5.6.2 Non-availability of Health Manpower Infrastructure as a Determinant of Health Status 128
5.6.3 Accessibility of Health Centres and Health Awareness and Health Status 130
5.6.4 Status of Health in India 134
References 136

6 Health Management for the Health Sector 141
6.1 Relevance of Health Management for Health Status 141
6.1.1 Introduction 141
6.2 The Concept of Health Management 144
6.3 Public Health Management and Health Status 146
6.4 Role of Health-Care Manager 148
6.5 Management Functions 151
6.5.1 Planning 151
6.5.2 Organising 152
6.5.3 Leading 152
6.5.4 Controlling 152
6.6 Management Roles 153
6.7 Health Management in India 155
6.8 Health Policies and Health Management 157
6.9 Role of Economics in Evaluation of Health Policies 159
References 161

7 Policy Implications of the Main Findings of the Study 163

Bibliography 171

http://www.springer.com/978-81-322-2534-8

Determinants of Health Status in India

Sengupta, K.

2016, XIX, 172 p., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-81-322-2534-8