Acknowledgments

This edited book is an outcome of the Behaviour at School Study. We would like to acknowledge the financial support of Australian Research Council Linkage Scheme (LP110100317) and the following partner organisations who contributed funds and/or in-kind support to the Behaviour at School Study:

- Department for Education and Child Development South Australia
- Catholic Education South Australia
- Association of Independent Schools South Australia
- South Australian Secondary Principals Association
- Association of Principals of Catholic Secondary Schools, South Australia
- South Australian Primary Principals Association
- South Australian Catholic Primary Principals Association

To the authors who contributed to this book, we thank you for your generosity and willingness to “answer back”. Collectively, we hope that these chapters contribute to a reframing of discourses related to student behaviour in schools.

We extend our appreciation of the support given by the University of South Australia for providing us with the resources to host the summit on Behaviour in Australian Schools and to prepare this manuscript.

We would like to thank Kate Leeson for her assistance in managing the production and editing of the final draft. Her attention to detail and her patience are appreciated.

Our partners in the Behaviour at School Study committed to being involved in the hope that research would inform approaches to policy development and school level practices. However, the individual views expressed in this publication do not necessarily reflect those of our partners nor all of the participants.
