

Contents

1	Cooperation to Confrontation to Cooperation over the Ganges Between India and Bangladesh	1
1.1	Historical Background: The Legacy of the Pakistan Era	2
1.1.1	Mutual Distrust and Divergent Negotiating Strategies	4
1.1.2	Domestic Politics: A Victim of Neglect	5
1.2	Indo-Bangladesh Negotiations on the Farakka Barrage	6
1.2.1	First Phase: Friendly Regimes and Productive Talks	7
1.2.2	The Domestic Pressures	8
1.2.3	Second Phase: A Total Rupture	9
1.2.4	Third Phase: Rapprochement and the First Agreement on Water Sharing	11
1.2.5	Fourth Phase: The See-Saw Game: Reverting to the Old Paradigm	13
1.2.6	The Domestic Pressures	15
1.2.7	Bilateral Talks: Turning a New Leaf?	16
1.2.8	Farakka: The Political 'Football' in Bangladesh's Domestic Politics	18
1.2.9	Fifth Phase: The Final Breakthrough	22
1.2.10	A Critical Evaluation of the Functioning of the Treaty	25
1.3	Conclusion	30
	Annexure	31
	References	35
2	Domestic Variables: Compulsions of Competitive Politics	37
2.1	Shared History and Divergent Aspirations	38
2.2	Compulsions of Indian Federalism	41
2.2.1	West Bengal Being Conscious of Its Position	41
2.3	India as a Factor in Bangladesh Politics	47
2.4	Mixing up Internal and External Relationship	50

2.4.1	India Synonymous of Mujib Government	50
2.5	Assertiveness of Muslim Identity	54
2.5.1	Complete Reversal	54
2.5.2	Farakka Discussion: Manoeuvring of Politics	57
2.6	Conclusion	62
	Annexure	63
	References.	67
3	India's Negotiating Strategy on the Ganges: Bilateralism Versus Multilateralism	69
3.1	Evolution of India's Negotiating Strategy on River Waters	70
3.1.1	India and Bangladesh Negotiations on Farakka Barrage	71
3.2	Bangladesh's Attempt to Internationalise the Ganges River Water Issue.	74
3.3	Interregnum of Multilateralism in Bilateral Negotiation	81
3.3.1	Acceptance of Nepal Option by India	81
3.4	Bilateralism Versus Multilateralism	83
3.5	Conclusion	88
	Annexure	89
	References.	97
4	Role of Civil Society in the Ganges Water Negotiations.	99
4.1	Introduction	99
4.2	Defining Civil Society	100
4.2.1	Role of Civil Society in Resolution of the Ganges River Water Dispute	100
4.2.2	Constraints and Limitations of Role of Civil Society	103
4.3	Future Potential of Role of Civil Society	107
4.4	Conclusion	107
	References.	108
5	The Ganges Treaty: Future Directions	109
5.1	Experience of 15 Years of the Ganges Water Treaty	109
5.2	Operations of Joint Rivers Commission (JRC)	113
5.3	Climate Change and Impact on Ganges River Water Treaty.	119
5.4	Interlinking of River Projects and Bangladesh's Concerns	122
5.5	Emerging Role of Provinces in Indian Federation	122
5.5.1	Exploration of Alternatives	125
5.6	Conclusion	127
	References.	128
6	Analytical Observations and Conclusion	131
	References.	135
	Index	137

India Bangladesh Domestic Politics

The River Ganges Water Issues

Pandey, P.

2016, XVII, 138 p. 1 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-2370-5